Two Shot as Guardsmen Repulse Mob at Elberton

TEAR GAS BOMBS, RIFLE FIRE USED TO SAVE NEGROES

Crowd Driven Back After Storming Jail Doors; Troops From Atlanta and Monroe Sent To Aid Elberton Units.

150 GUARDSMEN PLACED ON DUTY

One of Two Negroes Charges Other With At- tack on Girl; 4 Suspects Brought to Atlanta.

ELBERTON, Ga., May 18.—(AP)—Rifle fire and tear gas bombs were used by national guardsmen here to night in beating off a mob which attacked the jail where two negroes were under arrest charged with attacking a white woman. Two civilians were wounded.

"Refusing to retire at the command of guardsmen, the crowd pressed closer. The troops threw gas bombs, but these proved unavailing. They then opened fire. One man, Emory Edwards, of Elberton, was wounded in the hip.

"Later another civilian, Lyn Crowder, was shot in the leg when the crowd turned the fire hose into the jail. The source of this shot was not determined.

Unofficial reports from a hospital where Crowder was taken said his condition was serious and that amputation of his leg appeared necessary. Edwards was not considered badly wounded.

It was later learned that two negroes were in jail in connection with the attack and Assistant Police Chief C. W. Johnson said one of them had confessed his part in the crime but charged the other one with actually committing it. Johnson said John Dwyer, who made the confession, had been partially identified by the woman as the one who attacked her.

Four other negroes were arrested early in the afternoon and were taken to Atlanta, Ga., by a U. S. Marshal and Officer Johnson. Johnson said that during this trip several men in an automobile attempted to overtake the officers' car and at one time got close enough to shoot a bullet through the car. No one was struck and the sheriff outdistanced them into Athens. The car had been struck by only one bullet. After the four suspects had been incarcerated a mob gathered around the jail but soon dispersed. Later, the four negroes were transferred from Athens to Fulton tower, Atlanta.

Major A. N. Drake was in command of the situation here from about 4:30 this afternoon until Colonel O'Keefe's arrival about 7:30 tonight. Major Drake had about 40 men under his command.

Pear gas bombs were resorted to after the Elberton fire department had unsuccessfully attempted to calm the mob by turning the fire hose on the crowd. Members of the mob took the fire hose from the firemen and turned it on the troops, drenching them. It was then that the guardsmen utilized gas bombs and rifle fire to force the crowd back from the jail.

The tear gas bombs were picked up by the mob and hurled back at the troops. These bombs were described by officers as small affairs and not very effective.

The two local units of the Georgia national guard, one a machine gun outfit, and the other a headquarters company, were ordered on duty after a mob had attempted to get the negro in jail and following appeals to Governor L. G. Hardman in Atlanta from the mayor, sheriff, police chief and judge of the Elberton city court. They went on duty late this afternoon and moved off a deadline around the jail.

As the national guard company from Monroe, Ga., reached here late tonight a small charge of dynamite was set off in the courthouse yard. No damage was done.

Colonel G. P. O'Keefe, who was placed in command of the troops, re-

Beauty on Trial Tomorrow For Slaying of Rich Mate

BY MARY KNIGHT.
NICE, France, May 18.—(UP)—A blond, curly-haired little boy and his blue-eyed sister, two chief victims of a tragic shooting in a Riviera villa, remained ignorant tonight of preparations for the trial of their mother, Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, on Wednesday.

Their chief concern was for their mother, who they believe, is in a hospital, and for the "big boat" which was promised them by their father, who was shot to death.

They have not been told of the death of their father, Fred (3), Nixon-Nirdlinger, Philadelphia theater owner, and they will not be present in the courtroom when their mother goes on trial for the shooting.

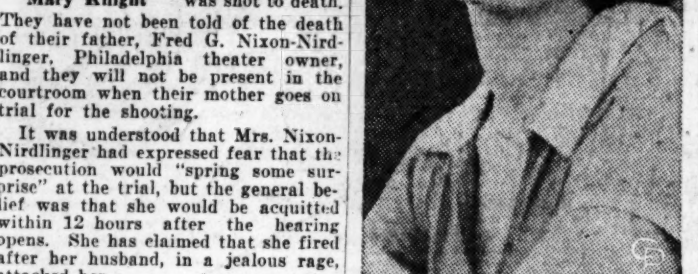

It was understood that Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger had expressed fear that the prosecution would "spring some surprise" at the trial, but the general belief was that she would be acquitted within 12 hours after the hearing opens. She has claimed that she fired after her husband, in a jealous rage, attacked her.

So confident were the defendant's attorneys that they have decided not to take Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger's two children, Fred, Jr., who is 3 years old, and Charlotte, who is 18 months old, to the courtroom, although it was admitted such action might aid in influencing the jury.

The two children, with whom the United Press correspondent had lunch today, made blunt inquiries as to how long their father would be gone and "why" won't they allow mother to leave the hospital?

Fred, nicknamed "Yankee Doodle," has not seen his mother since she was taken to jail but Charlotte has visited her each week, without understanding that she was entering a jail.

Fred speaks only French, studiously avoiding English questions. He said:

CHARLOTTE NIXON-NIRDLINGER.

she dreamed of being a French soldier. "My father promised to buy me a boat," he said happily. "He must be buying a big one if it takes so long. I like nurse, but I wish mother would hurry home. Mother told me that if I wanted to be a soldier—like those fellows dressed in blue—I would have to speak French. That's why I quit speaking English."

The nurse, Irma Stolz, insisted that the children not be taken to the courtroom for the trial. Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger has arranged to take them to America as soon as she is permitted to leave France.

SCHOOL SYSTEM OF STATE SCORED BY SENATOR-ELECT

Judge Buel Stark Tells Commission Present Code Is "Timeworn"; Overhauling Urged.

Charges that Georgia's school system is "autocratically" administered, that gross inequalities exist in county systems and that the state department of education "employs its own special auditor" were made before the legislative reorganization commission Monday by Senator-elect Buel Stark, of Whitfield county.

Judge Stark, a legislative veteran, was an unexpected participant in the hearings, voluntarily going before the committee when it had concluded its examination of the heads of the highway, prison commission and public welfare departments.

Georgia's present school code, the senator-elect from the 43rd, said, "is time worn and wholly unsuited for present conditions." He suggested to the committee that it consider seriously a recommendation that it be rewritten, an effort in which he pledged the committee whole-hearted co-operation.

Details Not Given.

"Autocratic tendencies" of the present administration were not detailed by Judge Stark but he asserted that the department needs a "thorough overhauling." He especially referred to the audit of the state auditor as a duplication of work, since the department has its own auditor and the state official reviews his accounting.

Cuyler Lays Plans To Fight Extradition; Declares He Was Misled in Business

NEW YORK, May 18.—The distinguished-looking southerner named Cuyler—the man with the meticulously parted head of white hair, the white mustache, the smartly-tailored dark blue suit and cream-colored waistcoat, the spats, the pince-nez on a black cord, and the elegant draw—who has been pacing inside of the Tombs with evident impatience for four days, was identified today as no other than Telamon Cruger Smith Cuyler, one of Georgia's picturesque figures, former husband of Mrs. Barton Cuyler and father of the Countess Albert de Mun and Barton Cuyler.

"Colonel" Cuyler was placed under arrest at the request of the Jersey City police as a result of an investigation prompted by the dumping of five tons of lead solder on the sidewalk in front of 14 Journal Square, Jersey City, last week. The Hudson county grand jury is expected to reveal tomorrow whether or not it is going to indict "Colonel" Cuyler for participation in what the Jersey City police describe as a $250,000 "metal swindle scheme." In jail in Jersey City is "Colonel" Cuyler's alleged partner, Joseph Price, who gave the aliases of Charles Brooks or Richardson.

"Please don't say anything," Cuyler requested today when approached by your correspondent. "I've made a very foolish mistake. I've been misled in business. This is very embarrassing to me."

He refused to answer questions about his family and past. During the day he conferred with various lawyers concerning a fight against extradition. Under the firm name of Brydges and Bart, according to the Jersey police, "Colonel" Cuyler and Price bought some $250,000 worth of copper, lead and other metals on 90-day credit from reputable concerns, presumably with expectation of selling it at a profit. The pile of lead on the sidewalk dumped there when nobody was around, led to the discovery that other metals were stored in various warehouses and that the firm was not registered according to law.

Cuyler was known before as a busi-

COUNCIL TO PROBE CITY OWNERSHIP

Action Is Thrust At All Public Utility Concerns in State; Gas Hearing Delay Sought.

After charges had been made that the Georgia public service commission "has failed to protect the interests of the people who elected them," council Monday afternoon took four definite steps in its fight against utility companies and the commission.

Following are the measures upon which council acted:

1. Passed a councilmanic resolution offered by Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, requesting that regulation of utility companies in cities of more than 25,000 population, according to the 1930 census, be taken from the commission and vested in the local municipal governments. Vote was 20 for and 12 against. Legislative sanction is required to make the measure effective. It would affect every utility operator of consequence in the state.
2. Referred to the finance committee of council, with a request that the money be found, a request of Councilman Joseph E. Berman, chairman of council's special committee fighting a revised gas rate asked by the Atlanta Gas Light Company, for $5,000 to conduct an independent appraisal of the company's properties to be used in the battle now being fought before the commission.

TRADE PACT SENT TO WORLD COURT

League Council Passes Customs Accord to Hague Without Action.

BY P. I. LIPSEY.
GENEVA, May 18.—(AP)—Two major events burst upon the international stage today. The great European powers and Austria agreed to send the controverted Austro-German customs union question to the World Court, and Maxim Litvinoff, Russian commissar of foreign affairs, invited the capitalistic world to join the soviet government in a multilateral treaty of economic non-aggression.

Judicial action on the Austro-German accord, which rent Europe with disputes, was decided in a session of the League of Nations council. On the proposal of Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson of Great Britain, The Hague tribunal will be asked to give an advisory opinion on the legality of the scheme for economic partnership between the two Teutonic states.

These two neighbors temporarily allied fears of France and Czechoslovakia by engaging to refrain from further negotiations until the court gives its opinion and the league council takes action thereon.

According to the proposal, which was endorsed by Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister; Dr. Johann Schober, Austrian foreign minister; Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, and Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, The Hague court will be asked to take the problem under consideration as an urgent matter and return its advisory judgment as soon as possible, probably during the summer.

Expedition was urged on behalf of Germany and Austria, who are anxious to resume their negotiations for accomplishing the customs merger if the court's opinion is favorable. Spokesmen for Germany, Austria and France all took occasion before the council to support their disputed claims.

Foreign Minister Schober said the scheme touches neither economic nor political independence of Austria. On the other hand, he declared if guarantees of Austria's independence defeat her sovereign right to make treaties.

CIVIL WAR FLARES OVER CHINA AGAIN

Fighting Begins in Smol- dering Rebellion; Na- tionalists Lose 200 Men.

SHANGHAI, May 18.—(AP)—Fighting has begun in the smoldering rebellion of south China against the central government at Nanking.

With 200 nationalist soldiers dead in clashes with insurgents in the past few days, both sides mobilized their forces today for the expected civil war.

Kwangtung and Kwangsi provincial leaders were reported about to set up a provisional government in Canton opposed to the "dictatorship" of Chiang Kai-shek, chairman of the nationalist government.

Thus General Chiang, who four years ago led the Cantonese armies in victory over provincial war lords to erect the nationalist government, must fight the Cantonese who placed him in power.

Aligned against him is said to be Sun Fo, minister of railways in the government, reported in hiding in Shanghai and about to go to Canton to campaign against Chiang.

Sun Fo, son of the late Sun Yat-sen, father of the Chinese republic, is reported to be seeking the downfall of Chiang, close friend and follower of his father.

As the anti-government armies assembled in Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces, Chiang mobilized his nationalist troops in the bordering provinces of Hunan and Kiangsi. He also seized 25 steamers to carry troops against Canton in an attack from the sea.

Butler at Portland To Aid State Police

PORTLAND, Ore., May 18.—(AP)—Major General Smedley D. Butler, of the marine corps, arrived today to assist Oregon officials in organizing a state constabulary. He went to Menucha to confer with Governor Julius L. Meier, at whose invitation he came here. He expects to remain in Oregon nine or ten days.

BANKS INCREASE BOND PURCHASES

Decrease in Loans Aids Sales of Federal Securities.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—Banks with an abundance of cash on hand, due to decreasing loans, were said today by the federal reserve board to be increasing their investments in government securities.

In its monthly review of business and financial conditions the board added total loans and investments of city banks were larger in April than in any of the preceding months despite continued decline in loans, both on securities and on "all other" forms of credit.

"This increase in member bank credit was due largely to the rapid growth of member bank investments in United States securities, which was continuous since the beginning of this year and became more rapid after the middle of March," the board said.

"Since that time the government has issued more than $2,000,000,000 of new securities, about one-half of which has represented refunding operations and the other half new borrowings. A substantial part of these government issues has been acquired by member banks."

Between March 11 and April 20 there has been no growth in bank holdings of government securities reported by banks in leading cities. The board added a review of loans and investments since October, 1928, showed there had been little change in member bank credit in New York city since the beginning of 1930 and little change in other reserve cities since the last quarter of 1929.

"In country banks the rapid growth of credit stopped in the middle of 1928; the volume then remained practically unchanged until the last quarter of 1929 and after that time diminished continuously and rapidly," the board said.

"This decrease in country bank assets has been due to a continuous process of liquidation of local loans reflecting diminished demand for credit because of the decline in business activity and in the prices of agricultural commodities."

"This survey brings out the fact that for a period of more than two years there has been no growth in bank credit, and that at the financial centers liquidation of loans to trade and industry has been more than offset by purchases and investments in government securities, while at country banks liquidation of commercial loans has not been accompanied by increased purchases and investments in government securities."

The board said the continuing easy money market had brought money to new low levels and resulted in country banks reducing rates paid on deposits, both on commercial accounts

Judge Howard's Son Honored at University

Charles Howard, winner of the Harold Hirsch scholarship to the university of Georgia, and son of Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, is one of the outstanding students at the university who will be marked out for special recognition at the annual "Honors Day" exercises today. Judge Howard, who has received an invitation to attend the exercises, will be unable to attend, but Mrs. Howard and a daughter will be among those present. It was understood Monday.

Young Howard, a freshman at Boys' High, where he also was quarterback on the football team and winner of several track medals, having represented the school in track meets at Chicago for three successive years. His average for the past year at the university has entitled him to the rank of "honorary student."

KEY IS ATTACKED IN COUNCIL DEBATE

White Scores Office Ex- pense; Millican Denies Using Mayor's Auto.

Reverberations of the Fulton county commissioner's race, to end at the polls Saturday, were heard Monday afternoon in council, when a fight was launched on Luther Wallace, fireman-chauffeur to Mayor James L. Key, and Acting Mayor G. Everett Millican took the floor to brand as "lie" any statement that he, as a candidate for the commission, had used the mayor's car to further his campaign.

Key and administration leaders were the objects of heated attacks by proponents of a measure designed to send Wallace back to the apartment and to employ a chauffeur for $100 a month instead of the $100 which proponents of the measure claimed Wallace receives.

Alderman James B. Bowden, of the 13th, and Councilman Ellis B. Barrett, of the 13th, were authors of the measure.

The paper was referred to the Atlanta board of firemasters for a report, after a debate which lasted nearly an hour.

Councilman James L. Wells struck back at the attackers, terming their claims "childish."

"Why don't you make this attack when Mayor James L. Key was here," he asked. "Wallace has been the chauffeur since he took office. This whole affair is childish and should not even be considered."

Millican was attacked in a radio address several nights ago by Trammell Scott, one of the 15 contenders, for using the "mayor's car for political day and night."

"I want to say that since Mayor Key is out of the city I have had little use for a chauffeur," Millican said.

Stars and Planets Originate From Gas Cloud, Says Scientist

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—Evolution of the stars and planets from a huge hot gas cloud filling all space, somewhat as drops of water are condensed from steam, was pictured tonight by Sir James Jeans, noted British astronomer.

Sir James said the formula had been worked out by mathematics and "satisfactorily checked" by actual observations with the giant 100-inch telescope at Mount Wilson, Cal. He presented his conclusions in a lecture sponsored by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, of which he is research associate.

Sir James said known laws of the behavior of gases show the gas cloud would condense into smaller clouds

Artificial Breeding of Mosquitoes Planned To Treat Georgia Insane

ALBANY, Ga., May 18.—(AP)—Artificial breeding of malaria mosquitoes on a large scale for use in hospitals for the insane in curing paresis is planned by the United States public health service.

Dr. Bruce Mayne, selected to organize the work of producing the dreaded pest, is in this city looking to the advisability of establishing headquarters here. He said the malaria cure for the brain malady is now used throughout the country and proves effective in from 15 to 35 percent of the sufferers treated.

At present malaria is given paresis patients by inoculating them with the blood of malarial patients. It was de-

Democratic Advantage Is

Snell-Tilson Split.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

HEATED HOMES NEED MORE MOISTURE

The most common fault in homes heated by ordinary warm-air, or steam, or hot-water, or steam, is lack of moisture. Such furnaces supply only heat. They bake the air desert dry. People overheat houses with dry heat and waste costly fuel.

These homes are unhealthy. They sap the moisture out of the body and make you an easy prey to winter colds and sore throats. Skin dries out. Faces and hands chap.

The Torrid Zone furnace corrects this trouble by continually furnishing the correct proportion of humidity. Extra-large water-pans are placed directly above the firing doors for rapid evaporation. The air in the home is kept as balmy, moist and healthful as a June breeze across a sun-warmed lake.

Unlike ordinary direct-radiation furnaces, the Torrid Zone circulates fresh, pure, conditioned warmth. It is made of heavy steel plates riveted into one seamless piece, like a steam-tight locomotive boiler. It cannot leak coal-gas or furnace-dirt.

Torrid Zone Furnaces are made to burn every kind of fuel and they always use less fuel than ordinary furnaces. A deep fire-pot, oversized radiating surfaces and a long smoke-travel chamber get every last bit of heat from the fuel before the smoke passes up the chimney.

The Torrid Zone is made by the Lennox Furnace Co., Marshalltown, Iowa; and Syracuse, New York.

ECONOMIC REMEDIES OFFERED BY SOVIET

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 18.—(AP)—Maxim Litvinoff, soviet Russia's delegate to the commission on a Pan-European federation, today proposed the conclusion of "a pact of economic non-aggression" as the commission resumed its sessions.

Campaigns against soviet Russia, he told the other statesmen, never will diminish the severity of the economic crisis in capitalist states. His address was a virtual lecture on economic conditions in Europe.

"Let the states represented here adopt a general convention," he said, "providing for compulsory sale of commodities in home markets at the same low prices which prevail in foreign markets."

Charges that soviet dumping aggravates the economic depression are "inconceivably silly," he declared, adding that by developing "intimate commercial relations" with the soviet union the capitalist states will mitigate the burden of the economic crisis.

"Relations to be established between the capitalist states and the soviet union," he said, "cannot fail to react upon the course of the present world crisis. The world depression will be prolonged by the efforts of capitalists to maintain high prices in domestic markets."

The commission, he said, ought to direct its efforts against certain phenomena which underlie the depression: heavy taxation, for example, which has resulted from "the tenacity of militarism as a result of which, despite the Kellogg pact, military blocs are preparing new wars; increasing economic rivalry between capitalist states; the burden of reparations and inter-allied debts; the distribution of gold reserves."

FIRMER FOUNDATIONS SOUGHT FOR BUILDINGS

Members of the borough planning commission and C. J. Bowen, building inspector, are slated to consider more stringent regulations regarding construction of foundations in Atlanta office buildings as a result of a letter received Monday by Acting Mayor G. Everett Millican from Hugh W. Roberts, executive secretary of the Georgia chapter, Associated General Contractors.

Millican said he would turn the proposed changes in the borough building code over to the proper authorities. Roberts cited in his letter that failure of the borough to force contractors to show their financial responsibility might be blamed for the present alleged defects in the new city hall.

Plies to Representative Garner, the democrat, for that matter.

As things now stand, neither party has a majority of the house, which probably will be decided by special elections to fill existing vacancies between now and the date of convention. If the democrats should elect a successor to Longworth in the Cincinnati district, which the republicans were able to carry in the last election by a margin of only approximately 1,000 votes, the speakership contest might be decided then and there. Another republican vacancy exists in Wisconsin, due to the recent death of Representative Henry Allen Cooper.

Complicating the republican outlook, however, is the attitude of several progressives and insurgents who have declined to say how they will vote on house organization. The refusal of one or two of these to vote might be all that is needed to elect a democratic slate.

TWO ARE WOUNDED IN ELBERTON RIOT

ported to Adjutant General Homer C. Parker in Atlanta that on his arrival he found that the mob had entered the jail and had beaten the prisoners. The rioters had been unable to break the bars.

After the first troops went on duty the crowd quieted down, but later became more menacing and increased in numbers.

On receipt of word from Colonel O'Keefe of the situation, Adjutant General Parker sent Company F, a rifle company, from Atlanta and a howitzer company from Monroe, Ga., to reinforce the troops already on duty here.

The Atlanta company, commanded by Captain R. C. Endicott, took along 25 extra riflemen and a supply of powerful gas bombs.

The howitzer company from Monroe, commanded by Captain A. E. Williamson, and the Atlanta company, were dispatched by special buses.

The rioters, however, had increased the total number of guardsmen under arms to over 150.

Before the troops fired the mob had cut the ropes and attempted to rush the jail. Colonel O'Keefe had orders to shoot any men who attempted to enter the jail. Adjutant General Parker said in Atlanta.

The rioters on duty at the jail used tear gas bombs intermittently to keep the crowds back.

Before the troops had been requested, Rev. Henry Brookshire, Baptist minister, and chief of Police W. H. Lewis had urged the crowd to let the law take its course.

The negro had been arrested early in the afternoon by Sheriff S. B. Seymour, of Elberton county.

At the time the negro armed escort rushed four other negroes, also held as suspects in the Elberton assault case, to safe-keeping in Atlanta, after word had been received that a mob planned an attempt to storm the Athens jail at 7 o'clock Monday night. The four negroes, arrested early Monday morning, had been spirited from Elberton to Athens by Sheriff Seymour as soon as the situation in Elberton grew serious. The party arrived at Athens at 6:35 o'clock.

Several hundred persons milled about in front of the Elberton jail all day.

Sheriff Seymour said that a crowd of about 400 persons gathered about the jail Monday afternoon after the negro suspect had been lodged therein, but after the troops went on duty the crowd dispersed with the exception of a few curiosity seekers.

The officer said before the troops were called a part of the crowd got into the jail and down there, to the negro's cell, but were restrained by appeals from the Rev. Henry Brookshire, pastor of the First Baptist church of Elberton, and Police Chief W. H. Irvin.

Again the crowd attempted to reach the negro, the sheriff said, but heeded appeals to reason. I persuaded them to burn. The irritant caused me to scratch the eruptions until they were so sore that I could not sleep at night. The trouble lasted three months.

"I tried different remedies but they did not help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after a few treatments there was an improvement. I continued using it and in about a month I was completely healed." (Signed) Henry Hill, 474 N. Fifth St., Memphis, Tenn.

Chief of Police H. W. Beusse, of Athens, refused the demand of a group of Elberton citizens, about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, that he turn his four prisoners over to them. Later, when rumors of an attack to be made on the Clarke county jail at 7 o'clock were circulated, it was decided to remove the prisoners to Atlanta.

The negroes were loaded into two cars, while an advance car and a trailer filled with armed men were included in the motorcade. Officers armed with riot guns, rifles, pistols and shotguns filled the four cars while a delegation of prominent citizens, including Mayor A. G. Dudley, Charles E. Martin and several others, also accompanied the escort.

Martial law was declared in Elberton shortly after 3 o'clock. Long distance telephone calls to Governor Hardman from Judge Raymond Stapleton, of the Elberton city court; Sheriff Seymour, Mayor A. S. Hawes, of Elberton, and Chief W. H. Irvin, of the Elberton police force, described the situation as serious and the governor immediately issued the proclamation putting the city under martial law and ordered two companies of national guard troops called out to protect the prisoner.

Two Companies Assigned.
Adjutant General Homer C. Parker assigned the Headquarters company, Third Battalion, 122nd Infantry, and Company M, 122nd Infantry, to immediate duty in the emergency. Both companies had been on duty in Elberton and were assembled within a few minutes after the order to duty was received.

Colonel Gerald P. O'Keefe, commander of the 122nd Infantry, of Atlanta, was placed in active command at Elberton, with Major Andrew N. Drake, of Elberton, commanding the Third Battalion. Captain Albert P. Tuttle, regimental adjutant, of Atlanta, and Captain Marion Williamson, of Atlanta, commander of the machine gun company, also on the scene.

The Atlanta officers took a supply of tear gas bombs with them to Elberton.

Madrid Martial Law Is Officially Lifted

MADRID, May 18.—(AP)—Martial law, imposed upon Madrid following the riots early last week, was lifted tonight.

MAN IS RECOVERING FROM BLOW ON HEAD

Horace S. Mulkey, of Smyrna, foreman of the Fruit Growers' Express, Monday night was reported to be recovering at Georgia Baptist hospital from the effects of a blow over the head received Saturday, which at first was thought to be serious. County police were seeking W. H. Gibson, of Inman yards, as the alleged assailant.

According to county police the affair occurred in Hills park, in the W. & A. railroad yards, where Mulkey was struck over the head with a long length of iron used for handling ice in packing refrigerator cars. The police said a man was arrested in Dalton Sunday and held as Gibson, but was later identified as another person and released.

U. S. MEDICAL COSTS SET AT $3,000,000,000

Doctors' Bills Take a Third,
Medicines and Supplies
Cost $700,000,000.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 18.—(NANA)—A committee under the chairmanship of Secretary Wilbur, investigating the medical costs of the United States, has just arrived at a total of $3,000,000,000 a year! That's three times the size of the expected deficit in the national budget, which disturbs so many people.

One-third of the whole amount went to physicians. Medicines and supplies come second with a yearly bill of $700,000,000. Hospitals account for another $550,000,000, and dentists have evidently found the American grinders in a profitable state of decay, for they took in $400,000,000! The balance of the bill, except for the item of public health, carries the charges of special medical services.

The money spent for public health in the United States is amazingly low when compared to total medical costs. It is only $86,000,000! The debate, which is growing in intensity, between advocates of public and private control of medical service will undoubtedly get fresh impetus from this report.

Medical services fall far short of human needs. In the United States, about 70 per cent of the needed dental care is not provided at all. In other health services, the deficiency appears equally large," says Dr. Foster, director of the Pollak Foundation for Economic Research.

MRS. BESSIE H. WALLER WILL BE BURIED TODAY

MRS. DULL TO CONDUCT COURSE AT DAVISON'S

Beloved Decatur Woman To Be Laid To Rest at West View

Funeral services for Mrs. Bessie H. Waller, 74, widow of the late William G. Waller, of Williamsburg, Va., grandmother of President John Tyler, will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning from the residence. The Rev. Charles Holding will officiate. Interment will be in West View cemetery. Mrs. Waller died Sunday afternoon at the home of her son, John Tyler Waller, in Decatur.

The following have been requested to serve as pallbearers: R. P. Christian, S. N. Roberts, J. L. Skinner, H. J. C. Pearson, T. R. Crown and Don Donaldson. The honorary escort will include A. E. Boston, Maynard Sanders, B. F. Colmer, W. P. Sherman, A. E. Sortore, R. C. French and J. C. Kamper. H. M. Patterson & Son will be in charge.

Besides her son, an official of the Southern Cottonseed Products Company, Mrs. Waller is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Mary Walker de Saussure, formerly of Decatur, now of Leonia, N. J.; two grandchildren, Miss Elizabeth Waller de Saussure, Miss Mary Chapman de Saussure, of Leonia, and a brother, Thomas H. Austin of Atlanta.

Dr. Chas. E. Young Pays High Tribute To Sargon's Powers

Dr. Chas. E. Young, former Fellow New York Academy of Medicine, said:

"I cannot remember ever before lending my name to endorse a medicine of any kind, but there are such vast thousands of our people who sorely need the proven system building influence of this new Sargon that I, as a practicing physician of many years standing, would be grossly negligent in my duty if I did not put myself on record as being in accord with the Sargon principle."

"Its blood-enriching action in cases of simple anemia, its mild diuretic action upon overloaded kidneys, its sharpening of jaded appetites, as well as its far-reaching influence upon the processes of digestion, assimilation and elimination should result in marked benefits and a general upbuilding of the patient."

Dr. Young's statement was made after a thorough examination of the Sargon formula, for which purpose he was expressly retained.

Sargon is sold by Jacobs' Pharmacy. (adv.)

FOOLISH TO LET A CORN HURT YOU

What a painful mistake to make! Tormenting corns may come, try as you will to avoid them—but they need not stay. And you can stop their hurting instantly.

How? Merely by cushioning them from the pressure and chafing that cause the pain. Just let a velvet-soft Blue-Jay corn plaster circle the tingling spot, and you'll almost feel the grateful relief surging to soothe your nerves.

Blue-Jay is the safe, sensible treatment for corns, used by millions for 31 years. Far safer than rapid-fire "cures" or risky paring. It medicates the corn gently—gradually softens and detaches it.

You can rely on Blue-Jay because it is a product of Bauer & Black, noted makers of surgical dressings. Keep a box always handy—stop corns at the start! At all drug stores, 25 cents.

How To Stop Skin Itching In 2 Minutes

If you suffer from skin eruptions of any kind, pimples, itch, tetter, ringworm, eczema, etc., a pleasant ointment, known as Tetterine, containing highly effective parasite destroying and skin-healing properties, never fails to bring quick and permanent relief.

Tetterine, by its cooling, soothing, antiseptic effect, kills the parasites that bore into the skin, causing irritation and itching. Tetterine is sold and guaranteed by all druggists at 60c a box or sent direct, postpaid, upon receipt of price. Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.—(adv.)

Gall Stone Colic

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leachard's prescription—HEM-ROID—to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. Jacobus Drugg Stores says HEM-ROID. Tablets must be taken with water or money back—(adv.)

MRS. S. R. DULL.

The first demonstration will be on "A Mold of Ham, a Calla Lily Sandwich, and Mint Ice." Mrs. Dull will explain the process of preparing the summer dishes included in the opening demonstration.

Hostesses assisting Mrs. Dull at the Tuesday afternoon demonstration will be: Miss Corrie Lee Cole, Miss Leila Buncie, Mrs. David Mitchell, Miss Fern Snider, Miss Cephalie Lewis, Miss Ida Langdon, Miss Lois Dowdle, and Mrs. Theodore B. Johns.

RED CROSS DRIVE WORK PROGRESSES

Public interest in the Red Cross "roll call" or membership campaign and in the work of the Red Cross generally was indicated Monday when more than a dozen Atlanta citizens dropped in at the campaign headquarters, 118 Peachtree street, and voluntarily enrolled as members.

The "roll call," which is to start Friday, following the meeting Thursday night to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the Red Cross organization, is not to be so much a campaign to raise money as to increase the sustaining membership in the Atlanta chapter, it was pointed out by Walter C. Hendrix, general chairman. At least 10,000 members are expected to be enrolled, and no one will be asked for more than the $1 membership fee.

Presidents of several large corporations, familiar with the work of the Red Cross in war and peace, have voluntarily pledged that their associates and employees will be enrolled "100 per cent," it was stated Monday.

MRS. SAMUEL YOUNG PAID FINAL TRIBUTE

Final tribute was paid to Mrs. Samuel Young, 77, who died Sunday at a private hospital after an illness of six weeks, at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John J. Eagan, 902 Oakdale road, where she had been living. The Rev. Stuart R. Oglesby and the Rev. Richard Orme Flinn officiated. Interment was in West View cemetery. The pallbearers were C. D. Montgomery, J. T. Thompson, J. Harry Alexander, J. W. Brown, Willis M. Everett, Sr., J. Bulow Campbell, Dr. W. W. Alexander and John Morrison.

Mrs. Young was the widow of the Rev. Samuel Young, Presbyterian minister, who died in 1910, and the mother of the late Miss Anna Young, of the faculty of Agnes Scott College. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Eagan and Mrs. Paul F. Brown, of Atlanta; a son, the Rev. W. C. Young, of Whitesburg, Tenn.; three granddaughters, Miss Carolyn Young, of Spruce Pine, N. C., and the Misses Anna Young and Ann Eagan, of Atlanta; and five grandsons, Samuel Y. Paul E. and Eldridge Brown and William Eagan and William C. Brown.

ROBERT M'C. HICKS FUNERAL CONDUCTED

Funeral services for Robert McConnell Hicks, widely-known retired hotel operator, who died Sunday at his plantation on Candler road, were held at the plantation Monday morning, the Rev. J. C. Maness and Dr. L. R. Christie officiating. Interment will be in Sweetwater, Tenn.

His death on May 17 fulfilled a prophecy made about three weeks ago, when he became ill with bronchial pneumonia, that he would die on the anniversary of his brother's death. His brother, Professor J. C. Hicks, of Sweetwater, died May 17, 1928. The hotel man would have been 68 years old Thursday.

Surviving are two sisters, the Misses Addie and Alice Hicks, of Decatur, and the following nieces and nephews, Mrs. Bruce Hall and W. O. Hicks, Decatur; R. A. and Sam Hicks, Savannah; Mrs. L. F. Young, Shreveport, La.; Mrs. Joe Durrett, Chattanooga; Mrs. Jack Andrews, Ashland, Ky.; Mrs. Ray Robinson, New York; Mrs. Charles A. Herring, Erie, Pa., and Mrs. Clyde Reynolds, Sweetwater, Tennessee.

BURIAL IN BALTIMORE FOR MRS. W. F. BARNETT

The body of Mrs. Louise A. Barnett, 45, who died Sunday at the residence, 1535 Beecher street, S. W., was sent Monday to Baltimore, where she formerly lived, for service and interment. Blanchard Brothers were in charge of the arrangements. She was the wife of W. F. Barnett, cashier of the Western Electric Company in Atlanta. Mrs. Barnett had been a resident of Atlanta for five years. Besides her husband she is survived by a sister, Mrs. M. Rogers, of Lynchburg, Va., and a brother, John F. Rogers, of New York.

NEGRO GIVEN 5 YEARS FOR SNATCHING PURSE

Jerry Robinson, 21-year-old negro, entered a plea of guilty before Judge G. H. Howard, of the Fulton superior court, Monday morning on a charge of robbery. He was specifically charged with purse-snatching, and Judge Howard gave him from four to five years on the chain gang. The indictment charged that Robinson snatched a purse of Mrs. Ida Chappell, of 430 Piedmont avenue, on March 31. The purse contained $45, it was stated.

POWER INTERRUPTED BY SHOTS FROM RIFLE

Only a few seconds' break in electric light service Monday morning for residents of Bankhead avenue and Grove Park resulted when, according to officials of the Georgia Power Company, two transformers at the company's West Lake substation were put out of commission by bullets from a high-powered rifle.

Residents of the neighborhood told police they heard five shots at about 2:30 o'clock Monday morning. The incident, one of several reported recently, followed the company's offer of $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of persons responsible.

Study Class of the United Congregational church will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday night in the home of Mrs. J. A. Bailey, 690 Spring street, it was announced Monday.

J. C. Buchanan, formerly of Atlanta, has been appointed district manager for the Southern Bell Telephone Company at Jacksonville, Fla., to succeed the late Colonel R. L. Boyd, it was announced Monday. Mr. Buchanan, who was stationed at Orlando as manager, was formerly the company's suburban district manager and commercial supervisor for Georgia.

John B. Gordon Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, will elect delegates to the annual reunion at Montgomery, scheduled for June 2, at their annual luncheon at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Ansley hotel, it was announced Monday.

Vernon Hungerford, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Hungerford, of Face's Ferry road, has been appointed colonel of the R. O. T. C. unit at Georgia Tech, it was announced Monday. Lewis Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Barnes, of 245 East Lake drive, was appointed lieutenant colonel.

Mike McDowell, pianist and accompanist of the Emory University Glee Club, who made his farewell appearance at the club's Atlanta concert Friday night, was the winner of the young students' contest in 1927. Instead of the young artists' contest, as previously reported. The winner of the latter event was Miss Elizabeth L. Hopson, of Atlanta.

Council Monday afternoon invited the 1932 convention of the American Waterworks Association to meet in Atlanta on motion of Councilman Nelson T. Spratt, chairman of the water committee of council.

Greyhound Lines, Inc., motor bus operators, Monday were granted a 90-day amnesty from police molestation of their station at the junction of Peachtree and Forsyth streets. Councilman James L. Wells, chairman of the traffic committee, recommended the proposal, scoring the Georgia public service commission for failure to settle on a bus station asked by the company operators. Previously the buses had been barred from parking there.

Effort to bar sale of produce except when weighed on scales Monday met a reverse when several members of council rallied to "help the small peddlers" and forced the ordinance back to the police committee for further consideration.

Left turns will be allowed at Peachtree and Harris streets but barred in the future at Peachtree and Ellis streets if Acting Mayor G. Everett Millican sanctions a recommendation of the traffic committee in which council concurred Monday afternoon.

Council Monday afternoon sustained the planning commission and voted to permit erection of an apartment near the intersection of Piedmont avenue and The Prado.

District conference of the North Atlanta district will convene at 9 o'clock this morning at the Druid Hills Methodist church. Dr. S. P. Wiggins presiding. About 300 delegates will be in attendance. Dr. W. J. Young, of Emory University, will preach the sermon. Ladies of the church will serve lunch for all delegates.

Dr. G. L. Morelock, of Nashville, Tenn., the general secretary of the board of lay activities of the Methodist church, will deliver the address tonight at a great mass meeting of Methodists in the Druid Hills church. All stewards are given a special invitation to be present. The subject of the address being "The Ideal Steward."

An old-fashioned barbecue dinner was given by the members of the Gordon Street Baptist church Monday night. Members and their wives and friends made a total of more than 150 who attended the dinner. The Electrical Workers' Quartet furnished the music for the occasion. C. S. Smith, president of the organization, presided.

T. Guy Woolford, president of the Georgia Forestry Association, accompanied by William A. Dunlap, acting district manager for the United States department of commerce in Atlanta, will drive to Albany today to attend the annual meeting of the association. Among the speakers at the meeting will be Dr. Charles H. Hory, who is a proponent of the paper-finish movement. The meeting will be attended by many of the leading lumbermen.

Las Vegas Made Safe For Workers on Dam

LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 18.—(AP) Fifty prohibition agents, led by Colonel George Seavers, of San Francisco, descended on this frontier town, gateway to the site of the proposed Hoover dam, and raided all speakeasies and road houses today. "We're going to make this place safe for Hoover dam workers," Colonel Seavers said. A hasty check of prisoners disclosed about 50 arrests. A large quantity of liquor was confiscated. It was the second raid on this desert city within two months. Las Vegas is located about 25 miles from the site where an army of laborers are working on the Hoover dam project.

NYE POSTPONES CANNON HEARING

Refusal of Miss Burroughs To Testify Causes Delay of Probe.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Further hearings in the senate's inquiry into the use of campaign funds in 1928, by Bishop James Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, were postponed today until late in the summer.

Chairman Nye, of the committee, said that the refusal of Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, to testify had complicated the committee's work and would necessitate additional inquiry by agents before further hearings could be held. Miss Burroughs was treasurer of Bishop Cannon's anti-Smith organization in Virginia.

Bishop Cannon today called on Chairman Nye to ask about the committee's plans. He said he wanted to be present at the inquiry but he did not indicate whether he would testify when he is called.

Absence from the city of some of the committee members also contributed to postponement of the hearings. Senator Nye expects to leave for the west late this week. He said he did not believe hearings could be held before August.

Rain To Arrive This Afternoon, Forecast Says

Atlantans, if they wear them, may discard their vests today without fear of catching cold, but they had better get out their raincoats by nightfall, it was predicted Monday by the local weather bureau. The mercury, which climbed Monday to its highest point since January 1, by reaching 85 degrees, will change little this morning and afternoon, said C. S. von Herrmann, meteorologist.

The menu for Tuesday reads "fair and warmer" and a summer-like day is in prospect. The heat will be broken by 6 o'clock in the afternoon, however, it was predicted, and there probably will be a little rain.

INJUNCTION HALTS NEW FUNERAL HOME

A temporary restraining order to prevent the city of Atlanta from granting a building permit to Sam Greenberg for the erection of a funeral home and undertaking parlor at Spring and 13th streets was signed Monday by Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court. The order restrains C. J. Bowen, city building inspector, from issuing a permit until a hearing can be given the injunction. The case will be called Saturday and the hearing set for some time next week, Judge Humphries stated. The motion was filed by H. L. Luttrell in behalf of J. Low Zachry et al., the petitioners being owners of property in the neighborhood.

Snow, Rain and Hail Denver's Menu in Day

DENVER, Col., May 18.—(UP) Snow, followed by rain, then hail, with some more snow, fell today in Denver. A summer day went winter in its time, when cold winds swept down from the mountains, transforming what probably would have been an April shower into a snowstorm.

The snow was of a sticky kind. It clung to the tops of street cars and automobiles, giving them an appearance more of Christmas than of Decoration Day.

SALVATION ARMY BILL WINS IN COMMONS

LONDON, May 18.—(P)—The Salvation Army bill, aimed at "democratizing" the organization and which would deprive the general of much power, passed the commons on third reading by a vote of 231 to 81.

Frank Smith, labor member, charged that General Higgins was "a party to providing the only black page in the history of the Salvation Army." The speaker intervened as Smith continued his charges. The bill now goes to the house of lords.

VERDICT OF $6,500 FOR TODD LIDDELL

Todd Liddell, son of Drew Liddell, was awarded $6,500 damages against the Fulton Bakery, Inc., 181 Edgewood avenue, S. E., by a jury in Judge E. E. Pomeroy's division of Fulton superior court Monday afternoon. Todd Liddell entered suit against the bakery for $25,000 for injuries received in 1929 when a truck of the company is alleged to have backed into him. The case came to trial Friday and continued through Monday morning. A jury awarded Mr. Liddell damages in the amount of $6,500 shortly before court adjourned for the day.

Drew Liddell, father of the plaintiff, was for many years a prominent figure in local politics. He was at one time a deputy sheriff and at another a candidate against Walter Taylor for the post of city clerk. The law firm of Sims & Berman represented the plaintiff in yesterday's suit.

Delightful Disregard for Truth, Curran Terms W. C. T. U. Report

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—Direct issue with a Woman's Christian Temperance Union claim that certain state legislatures strengthened the prohibition amendment, the W. C. T. U. report "shows such a delightful disregard for the truth that it is almost comical," said Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The W. C. T. U. report said the W. C. T. U. document "shows such a delightful disregard for the truth that it is almost comical."

Presenting a counter claim, the anti-prohibitionists said the "only legislature in the land that made a dry state this winter was that of South Dakota."

"This happy little horseshoe," the report said, "is the only one that begins with the statement that 'New Jersey is a fine example of wet failure'—but just how do the Christian temperance people explain the fact that tomorrow's victory or the fact that 10 out of 11 of New Jersey's 12 representatives in congress and both of her United States senators are fighting for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment?"

The W. C. T. U. had said that all wet resolutions offered at the recent legislature died in committee.

It is also said that "repeal attempts were defeated" in Connecticut, Illinois and Rhode Island.

Connecticut, however, petitioned congress for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, subject only to a favorable vote of the legislature of that state. Connecticut, which will be taken next year and easily carried.

The people of Illinois voted last fall for repeal of both of the eighteenth amendment and the Illinois enforcement act. It was the W. C. T. U. governor—no Wisconsin legislatures have affirmed the people's mandate by his veto of this repeal of the state enforcement act.

Illinois legislature, he added, petitioned congress for repeal, while legislatures in Massachusetts, New York and Wisconsin declared against prohibition.

Personalities in the News---Curtis

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—Despite his 71 years, Vice President Irvin enjoys attending some social function almost every night of his life.

This enthusiasm for being among the first to express their views on the subject has been the backbone to his success and one of the reasons why he has managed to maintain his headquarters at the capitol for nearly 40 years, with the exception of a two-year gap.

Political Washington now is speculating over his future—whether he is the only exercise that appeals to him. Another of his diversions seldom indulged in since he became vice president is card playing. At one time he was known as one of the best players on Capitol Hill.

Reading and an occasional moving picture provide recreation for him when, on official or semi-official dining or reception is at hand in the evenings. While not overly formal, she lives up to the dignity of his post. When his sister and official hostess, Mrs. Dolly Gann, was not given the social precedence to which Mr. Curran believed her entitled he refused to attend any function unless she was

The vice president carries this sense of his position into his quarters in the State office building, where he maintains a more commodious setting than any of his predecessors. At his desk, he sits in a high-backed chair distinguished more for its appearance than its comfort.

An early riser, he is often at his desk shortly after 8 o'clock, though there is little other activity thereabouts before 10. He receives many callers, being more accessible than most high government officials, and enjoys chatting with them. The sombre suits, black ties and the almost invariably wears accenfor the general assembly to fix his salary "as long as it is commensurate with the services required."

Allowed 6 per cent of revenue for administration and maintenance, Captain Barnett said that the board's budget for the fiscal year ending June 30 contemplated the expenditure of less than 3 per cent. Out of total revenue, including federal aid, the department has planned to spend $250,000 for maintenance of existing projects and $500,000 for administration.

J. P. Faulkner, executive officer for the state board of public welfare, while not inclined to make recommendations, said that the consolidation of the welfare department, the training schools for boys and girls, the school for the feeble-minded and the inspection of prison and jails could be "logically" placed under one administration head.

On motion of Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, council Monday afternoon passed resolutions congratulating the state commission for its work and urging the legislature to follow recommendations which will be filed "so that there may be a large saving had to the state from overhead expenses incurred in maintaining the numerous departments as now established."

Work of the committee will be continued today with the hearing of heads of the university system and of the Tifton and Griffin experiment stations.

and in many cases savings accounts. This movement, it continued, was not confined to the larger cities, but had occurred in many moderate sized and smaller communities.

Gold imports continued to increase despite the low credit rates in this country. In the first three months of the year $100,000,000 in gold was imported, while it continued at even a faster pace after April 1.

"Particularly noteworthy was the receipt of $10,000,000 of gold from France in the course of one week," the board said. "In view of the large balances on which French interests could draw in this market as an alternative to shipping gold," the board continued, "this movement indicates that, however low the level of money rates may have appeared from domestic banking point of view, it has not been sufficiently low to discourage the flow of foreign funds to this market."

In April 63 banks with deposits of $40,468,000 failed and 23 banks with deposits of $24,142,000 reopened. The failures brought the number of suspensions since January 1, 1931, to 432 and the number of banks which have reopened in the same period to 161.

Why You Should "Spring-Clean" Your System

House up all winter, without fresh-air exercise, and eating few or no fresh green vegetables, allows the system to become all clogged up—stomach, intestines, colon, liver, kidneys and even sweat glands—with poisonous refuse matter which must be cleaned out—your human "flues" unstoppered—else you feel slow, sluggish, dizzy, no appetite or energy and sometimes ache in head and joints.

The "human house" should be thoroughly cleaned, just as you do the home, to make it more livable, and this you can best do with Jacobs' Laxative Salt, by simply taking two teaspoonsful before breakfast for several mornings. After the first dose you feel a pleasant sensation of returning energy and vigor, a clearing up of the head, a natural liver and bowel action—it thoroughly cleanses the system of its winter accumulation of toxic poisons—and may be had at any drug store.—(adv.)

Breakfast Appetite!

... serve Welch's as the morning fruit for just one month—then check results

BREAKFAST, neglected by so many as a distasteful ordeal, can be the most zestful meal of the day. Welch's, with its concentrated goodness of full-ripe Concord grapes, its cheery bright purple, its exciting fragrance, captivates sulky morning appetites and starts digestions working contentedly.

Welch's is Nature's most delightful tonic-food. It unstintingly supplies the mineral salts, neutralizing acids and fruit proteins which build up bodily vigor. Yet it does not add an undesired ounce to the weight. In Europe they call this the "Grape Cure."

Science and experience enable Welch's to bring you the exact equivalent of fresh vine-ripened grapes, regardless of season, every day throughout the year. It is fruit in the most convenient form. There is no squeezing, no preparing. Welch's is pure and rich. Many prefer to dilute it one-third to one-half water. It is pasteurized grape juice bottled under rigid laboratory control.

Now is the ideal time to put Welch's to the test. Drink it before breakfast, with your meals and between meals. Here is a Spring tonic that will bring you a new surge of life and new enthusiasm.

RAILWAY MEN TO HEAR S.A.L. RECEIVER TODAY

Purchase and Stores Division, A. R. A., Will Open Convention.

The 12th annual meeting of Division 6, Purchases and Stores, American Railway Association, will open at 9 o'clock this morning in the Atlanta-Biltmore hotel, with C. E. Walsh, chairman of the division, presiding. The address of welcome will be delivered by Horace Russell, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, following invocation by Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church. Principal speakers will be L. R. Powell, co-receiver of the Seaboard Air Line railway, of Norfolk, Va., and M. J. Gormley, of Washington, D. C., executive vice president of the association.

Sessions of the convention will be held daily for three days. It was announced. Entertainment features will include an informal reception at the Biltmore tonight, a bridge-lunch for visiting ladies Wednesday, and sight-seeing trips to various points in the city. Delegates also will be tendered guest privileges at the golf clubs.

The committee in charge of arrangement for the meeting is composed of the following: J. L. Bennett, chairman; A. V. B. Gilbert, R. T. Pace, F. H. Feibig, J. E. Hobson, S. W. Saye and G. W. Alexander.

said, "There have been charges that I used the mayor's car day and night. The man who said that knows he lied when he said it. I have used the car twice, and only then when I considered it the city's business. If this council passes this measure, I will approve it in five minutes. I haven't used the mayor's car and don't expect to. I have a car of my own."

Barrett scored the fireman-chauffeur plan, declaring that it was unbecoming for members of the department to be forced to drive the mayor about. "These men should be firemen, as they are hired to be," he told council. "The fire department is short. Firemen are being drafted. There is a lot of talk about economy and not paying salaries of employees, and yet we waste $96 a month on a salary."

White Attacks Key.
Councilman John A. White attacked the mayor, who now is en route to Paris to visit the French Overseas and Possessions Exposition. "The mayor's department this year is getting $5,500 more than ever before, even with the cry of economy," White said. "Mayor I. N. Ragdale never had a borough-paid chauffeur. Key is now on his way to visit Mussolini to get new ideas about a dictatorship."

Barrett and other speakers took particular pains to exonerate Millican of any blame in connection with the attack, declaring that Key appointed Wallace, and that Millican was in no way to blame.

they themselves will gravely compromise Austria's independence. Briand maintained the project would be a violation of the treaty of St. Germain and the Geneva protocol of 1922. He reiterated France's fears lest a political union eventually result.

Foreign Minister Curius, welcoming the move to send the problem to The Hague, said "the limited character of our customs union project—three years—demonstrates that it is not a limit either politically or economically."

Council debate on the subject was not finished today but the action was made certain by the agreement of those chiefly concerned.

STARS AND PLANETS ORIGINATED FROM CLOUD OF GAS

daring idea that creation began in one single, vast atom is advanced by Abbe G. Lemaitre, of Louvain, Belgium.

Lemaitre is the astronomer whose cosmology, or theory of creation, recently has supplanted those of Einstein and De Sitter in the favor of many scientists.

He explains the single atom origin in nature, the Journal of British Science, under the title: "The Beginning of the World From the Point of View of Quantum Theory."

The Quantum theory holds that all energy is made up of separate packages called quanta. Thus a stove radiating heat does not give off a continuous flow, despite the impression of human senses to that effect. It has been demonstrated that the heat flows out in jerks, made up of separate quanta bundles. The stove cools in a series of steps.

Lemaitre points out that these quanta packages are constantly increasing in number, although the total amount of energy in the universe remains constant. This means that the energy is being transferred from larger bundles into the tiny, separate bundles. The stars are one kind of bundle; their radiation a flow of quanta.

Tracing this process backward toward its beginnings, Lemaitre finds there were less quanta a long time ago, and that it may be reasonable to suppose that the beginning was one single quantum.

Ward Its Beginnings, Lemaitre Finds

"We could conceive the beginning of the universe," he says, "in the form of a single atom, the atomic weight of which is the total mass of the universe. This highly unstable atom would divide in smaller and smaller atoms by a kind of super-radio-active process."

If this suggestion is correct, Lemaitre says, it is conceivable that time and space did not begin until after the original atom had divided into a sufficient number of quanta.

"The notions of time and space," he says, "would altogether fail to have any meaning at the beginning. Clearly the original quantum could not conceal in itself the whole course of evolution. The whole story of the world need not have been written down in the first quantum like a song on the disc of a phonograph. The whole matter of the world must have been present at the beginning, but the story it has to tell may be written step by step."

LIQUOR ATTACKED BY RELIGIOUS BODY

Prohibition Question Is Spiritual Matter, Christian Council Says.

Resolutions proclaiming prohibition as a moral and religious rather than a political issue and stating that "the churches can neither be wheedled into subservience to political purposes, nor cowed by threats into guilty silence, when supreme spiritual issues are at stake" were adopted by the Atlanta Christian Council in its meeting here Monday. The resolutions were drawn up and presented by the Evangelical Ministers' Association.

Prohibition, the resolutions state, "instead of being a question belonging solely to partisan politics, is profoundly and absolutely a moral and spiritual matter, and can only be to any degree a political affair, in the best sense of that term, as the moral purpose and decision of the people must find expression in suitable statutes and civil administration."

"It is no attempt to involve the

NEW GERMAN CRUISER TO BE LAUNCHED TODAY

KIEL, Germany, May 18.—(AP)—An air of patriotic excitement tonight overhangs this historic naval base where tomorrow noon the venerable German president, Paul von Hindenburg, will christen the first "vest-pocket" battleship of Germany's new navy.

More than 60,000 persons are here to witness what many regard as a symbol of the resurrection of the German sea power.

The battleship, Deutschland, is a 10,000-ton, rivetless, mine-proof cruiser which was built to outfight and outcruise anything in armor twice its weight.

The city is profusely decorated with flags for the gala day and the railway station resounded with cheers of welcome for the veteran sea-fighters who are arriving to take part in the momentous naval event.

W. C. T. U. FOUNDER IS DEAD IN OHIO

HILLSBORO, Ohio, May 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Sarah Doggett, 92, one of the original "crusaders" who founded the Women's Christian Temperance Union, died at her home here today.

Mrs. Doggett migrated down the Ohio river in a flat boat with her husband and children three-quarters of a century ago, settling at Loasaville, now known as Cincinnati, later moving to Hillsboro.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union was formed Christmas Day, 1879, after an address here by Dr. Dio Lewis, physician and lecturer, who spoke of the "Gospel of Temperance." Mrs. Doggett was one of the group which formed the crusade organization which later became the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

MRS. GRACE COCHRAN.

ANDERSON, S. C., May 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Grace Cochran, 88, of Anderson, mother of United States Judge Ernest Cochran, of Charleston, died here today.

MRS. WHARTON J. GREEN.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., May 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Wharton J. Green, whose first husband was David Davis, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States and United States senator from Illinois, died today at her home here.

Mrs. Green, who was Miss Adeline Burr, was born in Como, Ill., and in 1883 married Mr. Davis.

GRACE MEHLINGER WEBER.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Grace Mehlinger Weber, wife of John Weber, well-known comedian, died yesterday in her West 72nd street home at the age of 60. She formerly was on the stage. Besides her husband, Mrs. Weber is survived by a brother, Arthur Mehlinger, formerly in vaudeville, and three sisters, Mrs. Sol Gardiner and Juliet Mehlinger, of New York, and Mrs. David Stahl, of

NEW PLEA FILED BY BURLEY ADAMS

Man Sentenced To Die Four Times Gains Another Hearing.

Burley Adams, four times sentenced to death for killing a prohibition enforcement agent, Monday had before the supreme court a petition for mandamus in a new move to save him from the electric chair.

Attorneys for Adams filed the petition to compel the judge of the Augusta circuit court to certify to a bill of exceptions. Solicitor George Maize, of Augusta, was in Atlanta watching developments.

Adams is under sentence to die May 22. He was convicted of killing Walter Tolbert, prohibition officer, in Columbia county in September, 1929. The evidence in the case showed that the car in which Tolbert was riding was fired upon from ambush.

Benjamin E. Pierce, of Augusta, and J. B. Burnside, of Thomson, filed the petition for Adams. Executive clemency has heretofore been refused by Governor Hardman.

The court Monday declined to interfere with the death sentence of Willie Higgins, Fulton chain-gang prisoner, and a new date for his execution will be fixed when the remittitur is returned to the superior court.

The court also upheld the conviction of John Dodson, Sumter county, who was charged with the murder of his wife last December. Dodson is under a life sentence, the jury having recommended mercy.

St. Louis, Mrs. Weber was a native of Pine Bluff, Ark. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in the Riverside Memorial chapel.

Southern Pines Hotel Is Destroyed by Fire

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., May 18.—(AP)—The Southern Pines hotel, one of the older tourist hotels of this North Carolina resort, was destroyed by fire early tonight. The loss was estimated at $200,000.

Fire was discovered breaking through the roof shortly before 7 o'clock. The building, a wooden structure about 35 years old, burned rapidly, although fire apparatus from Pinebluff, Aberdeen and Carthage assisted Southern Pines.

No lives were endangered, so far as could be learned tonight. Frank Harrington, manager, was preparing to close the hotel for the season and go to Bethlehem, N. H., where his father, J. J. Harrington, owner of the local establishment, operates another hotel.

The flames were claimed to come from the hotel building. Practically all the equipment was reported destroyed or damaged.

WAR HERO SLAIN BY FRENCH WIFE

NEW ORLEANS, May 18.—(UP)—Edgar Bouigny, the first American to be awarded the World War, twice cited for bravery in battle, hero of the French foreign legion and winner of the croix de guerre, met death here today at the hands of his French war bride.

Bouigny was fatally wounded by his wife at their apartment in the Vieux Carre here today. Mrs. Bouigny, alternately hysterical and calm, was looked on as a charge of manslaughter which later was dismissed, and she was released on the grounds that she had fired in self-defense.

The weapon which snuffed out the life of the fighting soldier who survived four battle wounds, and aerial participation during the entire World War, was a .22 calibre revolver of inexpensive make.

"He beat me—and cursed me," Mrs. Bouigny told the United Press. "As much as I loved him I felt I had to kill him in order that he would not kill me as he had threatened to do."

"We had been quarreling for several days," she continued. "This morning he threw a shoe at me, and then kicked me in the head. I ran for the pistol in another room."

"Things seemed to go black—I did not want to kill my dear Edgar, my hero, but I fired three shots at him. He went down stairs and fell in the courtyard. I knew he was dead because blood was streaming from his head."

The woman had neighbors call police.

At the police station where she was questioned it was necessary for her to use an interpreter as she could not speak sufficient English to make herself understood.

Bouigny, who is a direct descendant of General Dominique De Bouigny, who led Napoleon's troops in Louisiana, joined the forces of his forefathers during the early days of the World War.

In the foreign legion he distinguished himself for bravery. Upon America's entrance into the conflict he left the French Lafayette escadron, famous flying corps, to the American flying corps.

It was in Paris during the last days of the war that Bouigny met Odile Hubert, a photographer for a French newspaper.

Bouigny's life was an adventurous one. At 17 he was shipwrecked on a boat bound from San Francisco to China. He tried gold mining in Nevada and was a sailor off the African coast.

Upon his return to New Orleans after the war he was accorded one of the most lavish welcomes ever bestowed upon a returning hero.

Paul Ayres Rockwell recorded Bouigny's story in his book, "American Fights in the Foreign Legion."

DR. A. H. COCHRAN QUILTS RACE FOR COMMISSION

Fulton county's field of candidates in the commission Monday was reduced from 15 to 14 when Dr. A. H. Cochran formally withdrew. In retiring, he threw his support to G. Everett Millican, another contender, and scored George F. Longino, Jr., a third entrant, for breaking an alleged promise to support him in the present race.

Seven of the candidates spoke or were represented Monday night at a meeting held at Faith's crossing, under the auspices of the Eleventh Ward Carry-On Club, with Councilman George B. Lyle presiding.

Two gatherings today and a radio address tonight are slated to give the 32,000 qualified voters another opportunity to hear arguments in the race.

At 12:30 o'clock this afternoon all candidates have been invited to appear at the open forum luncheon meeting at the Tavernier restaurant sponsored by the Atlanta League of Women Voters, and at 9 o'clock tonight friends of Longino will stage a rally at the new municipal auditorium at East Point.

Millican will deliver a radio address at 9:15 o'clock tonight over WSB.

Paul M. Sikes, another of the candidates, Monday issued a statement denying he would withdraw from the race.

Trammell Scott, Millican, Thomas J. Lewis, Sikes, W. L. Jones and J. M. Barnwell appeared in person at the rally Monday night, while Virgil Adams, attorney, represented W. F. Rutherford, the seventh candidate.

Following is the text of Dr. Cochran's statement:

"Two years ago I entered the race for county commissioner and then withdrew in favor of George Longino, with the understanding that I would have the support of Mr. Longino and his friends for the first opening on the board. No later than last month, Mr. Longino renewed this promise to me, that he would not run again at a time when it would be embarrassing to me."

"Now, since he has seen fit to enter the present race after I had entered, and withdrawn the support of himself and his friends, I realize that I cannot win the race against his well-organized minority, the courthouse ring, in a special election in which a light vote will be cast. Therefore, I have withdrawn from the race, but wish to thank my many friends for their loyal support."

"In withdrawing, I wish to urge upon the voters of Fulton county the need of a man of unquestioned character and proven ability. Fulton county cannot afford at this time to experiment with untried material, and although I shall not presume to tell my friends how to vote, I shall cast my ballot for Everett Millican."

Of the 32,000 voters only about 9,000, living outside the corporate limits of the borough of Atlanta, will be entitled to cast ballots on a proposal to reinstate a 2.5 mill special tax for county schools and on a $500,000 bond issue for improvement of county schools.

COCA-COLA NOTES 'EXTRA' DIVIDEND

Payment of $3,500,000 To Be Made Shareholders on July 1.

Dividend payments of $3,500,000 on July 1 were authorized and increased earnings figures for the first quarter were announced Monday afternoon by the board of directors of the Coca-Cola Company, meeting at the general offices here.

The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share and an "extra" dividend of 25 cents per share on the common stock were voted by the board along with the regular semi-annual dividend of $1.50 per share on Class "A" stock.

Net profits for the first quarter of 1931, before deducting federal taxes, were $2,902,801.71, which is an increase over the same period last year, despite a moderate decrease in the volume of business done. This gratifying showing was due, it was stated, to increased income from subsidiary companies, decrease in the cost of raw materials and decrease in all operating expense except advertising promotion.

The consolidated statement of earnings showed gross receipts from sales of $7,888,527.83, less manufacturing and general expenses of $4,730,352.42, giving an operating profit of $3,048,175.41. Miscellaneous deductions from income of $145,373.70, making net income $2,902,801.71 compared to $2,849,156.35 for the first three months of 1930.

The "extra" dividend of 25 cents per share was first voted at the annual meeting in February, at the same time that the regular quarterly dividend was increased from $1.50 to $1.75 per share. Dividend payments on the common stock for the first half of 1931, therefore, have been on an 88 annual basis compared with $6 in 1930.

The dividend on both the common and Class "A" stock is payable to shareholders of record on June 12, 1931.

$1,325 VACATION FUND IS DENIED R. R. RITCHIE

Raymond R. Ritchie, deposed business manager of the Atlanta public school system, effective July 1, Monday was denied $1,325 for vacation pay, which he had been promised by the board of education.

E. R. Sweet, Dr. Paul Whitehead and W. W. Gaines, president of the board, attended the committee session, in addition to J. Ira Harrelson, chairman.

The board referred the proposal to compensate Ritchie for vacation periods to the committee at its meeting May 12.

An adverse report of the committee is expected to bar efforts of his friends at the June 9 meeting of the board to obtain the fund, since Gaines was expected to support his request before the committee Monday afternoon.

Ritchie appeared at the meeting and exhibited records in an effort to convince members that despite the fact that the cubic feet heated in the present system is almost double what it was in 1925, when he became business manager, he has saved $67,000 in fuel bills. He also claimed that he had obtained more than $7,000 from the Georgia Power Company as rebates to the board in checking up on power used.

PAPER IS NECESSITY, KANSAS JUDGE RULES

ARILENE, Kan., May 18.—(AP)—District Judge C. M. Clark held today that distribution of newspapers or the Sabbath does not violate the Kansas "blue law."

He refused to issue an injunction against a circulation agent for the Kansas City Star, ruling that the Sunday newspaper is a necessity and that the legislature of 1908 did not contemplate a ban on newspapers when it passed the Sunday labor law.

State's attorneys gave notice of an appeal to the state supreme court.

SCHOOL REVISIONS GO TO COMMITTEE

Finance and Charter Revision Bodies To Consider Commission Proposals.

Recommendations of the special commission, headed by Walter H. Rich, will be considered jointly by the finance and charter revision committees of council, it was decided Monday when the report was filed by Alderman Edward A. Gilliam, chairman of the schools committee.

Among the outstanding recommendations are: Hike of 50 per cent in water rates to eliminate an $800,000 school deficit; abolition of the K-6-3-3 plan and substitution of another with 12 grades; abolition of the present board of education and election of another composed of seven members from the borough at large.

Councilman John A. White attempted to place council on record as opposing any tax increase, either direct or indirect, but failed when it was referred to the finance body.

Another proposal by Councilman George B. Lyle to empower the mayor to appoint a commission of five to run the schools instead of having the department function under a board of education also went to the finance committee.

Efforts of the hospitals and charities committee to divert fees paid into the Albert Steiner cancer clinic from the general treasury and have them placed at the disposal of that institution, and that no other money be sent to the finance body for consideration.

In fighting the water hike, White said "there is nobody in Atlanta who favors a tax raise except Key and a small group of his friends."

Alderman J. Charlie Murphy, chairman of the finance committee, warned council against passing any paper which might "cause the council to be surprised about these wives."

A very good husband with very bad habits and a demure little wife with a talent for mixing.

CUYLER PLANNING EXTRADITION FIGHT

nessman of daring, but this phase has received less prominence than others in his career. His taste in dress has been noted for a generation. Some years ago he called on the governor of Georgia and arrived in white, white-pink riding breeches, black patent leather boots, silver spurs and a crimson hunting coat.

He is understood to be the owner of a plantation of several thousand acres in Jones county, Georgia, remote from highways, and to have there a residence resembling an African bush hut, crammed with curios from every corner of the world, and papered with newspaper page mats in all languages, in many of which he is mentioned. He is regarded there as one of the foremost living authorities on Georgia history and the genealogy of Georgians.

On his mother's side he traced his ancestry to Henrik Cuyler, who came to this country from Holland in the seventeenth century. He was christened Telamon Gruger Cuyler Smith, but he obtained legal sanction to reverse the position of his last two names.

His hospitality was noted. Some aspects of it were graphically described in the course of several lawsuits attendant upon his divorce by Grace Barton Cuyler, daughter of John Barton, the wealthy California "salt baron." The marriage had taken place in 1900. In January, 1911, dispatches from Atlanta related that Telamon Smith Cuyler, "a cotton broker of Atlanta and New York, and well known as a litterateur and arbiter of dress," jumped from a train en route to New York and disappeared.

He showed up later at a sanitarium with $22,000 in bonds in his pocket. The Cuylers maintained a home in 721 street, near Park avenue.

Mrs. Cuyler brought suit for divorce in 1913. Colored Cuyler brought suit for $500,000 against his mother-in-law, Isabella T. Barton, charging that she had alienated his wife's affection for him, and an action to set aside the California decree of divorce.

Mrs. Cuyler put before the courts portions of his diary into which he had poured his emotions. One entry read: "My feelings toward her are as fixed as the polar star and will never suffer the slightest deviation throughout time or the sweep of the ages, to the end and beyond. I fully realize that I am conferring immortality upon her by this writing." Another entry read: "Here in the silent watches of the night I do desire to leave this pitiful record of my aching heart, my sweet, bitter sorrow, my love, first true love of my poor life."

Mrs. Cuyler did not think he was

Berman Attacks Board.
"The public service commission of the state of Georgia has failed to protect the best interests of the people who elected them," Berman said in supporting the White paper. "I am for this paper because I realize that someone must protect the people I believe in home rule and this is a step in that direction."

Alderman Alvin Richards, of the 13th ward, opposed the paper, asserting, "I, too, feel that the public service commission is not protecting the interests of the people and concur in Mr. Berman's statement, but I don't think council is the place to do it. Elect commissioners who will do their duty."

Berman attempted to have the $5,000 appropriation set up Monday, but members of the finance committee insisted that the matter should be referred to it in order that the "money might be found." Finally, it was sent to the committee with instructions to "attempt to find the money."

Acting Mayor G. Everett Millican probably will name the special council committee today to investigate the feasibility of municipal ownership of utilities.

With the borough's financial condition as it is, there is little likelihood that any concerted move to acquire the utility companies could be made in the very near future.

Scott offered the paper which is in line with the recommendations of the Atlanta Federation of Trades. Several weeks ago that body voted to ask Fulton county to set up an electric light plant to enter the field in opposition to the Georgia Power Company.

White Resolution.
The White resolution follows:
"Whereas, under the law governing rates, etc., of public utilities, in the larger cities, the governing powers have no voice; and
"Whereas, such large cities are the places that have street cars, electric gas rates, etc., and along with its citizens, and the governing bodies, it is believed that they are better qualified to pass upon questions that are so vital to the community and affect every person; and
"Whereas, it is the belief that the governing bodies of the larger cities of Georgia should exercise the authority now conferred upon the public service commission, in view of the fact, that they understand their local conditions better, such as labor, material, etc., and certainly when the cities own their streets, and no public utility can enter up such streets and lay gas mains, electric poles, telephone poles, underground conduits, street car tracks, etc., without permission from and authority from the local govern-

Cuyler Story Recalls Home Here And Big Reception Given Bride

The home in which Telamon Cuyler—then T. Cuyler Smith—lived as a young man is still standing. It is on the east side of Peachtree street, in the block between Linden and Morris avenues. The house is said to have had the first plate glass windows in Atlanta. It was built by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hunter Smith, whose name the young man abandoned.

In that home, the elite of the city assembled one afternoon more than thirty years ago to greet Telamon Cuyler and his bride, the former Miss Grace Barton, of San Francisco, Cal., whose marriage took place in the old Waldorf-Astoria, in New York city. Tea, at one hundred dollars a pound, was served at the reception, having been sent for this express purpose from California.

The bride wore a gown of grey chiffon, trimmed with lace dyed to match the costume, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Smith, an exquisitely beautiful woman, wore a gown brought from Vienna, the material being white satin, and it was elaborately embroidered in lavender lilacs. As a finishing touch, she clasped around her throat an old-fashioned necklace, made of seed pearls in the shape of roses, and mounted on mother of pearl plaques.

Telamon Cuyler's bride was heiress to millions, made from California salt mines. In 1914 she divorced him, and later Cuyler sued his mother-in-law for $500,000 for alienation of affection. The suit was dismissed.

writing about her. She mentioned several other women, including one "Fluffy Ruffles."

"Colonel" Cuyler lost in every legal action. He was not listed among the guests at the wedding of his daughter, Grace Cuyler, to the "Colonel" Albert D. Mun in St. Patrick's cathedral, one of the social events of the 1927 season. The D. Muns live in Paris. There also lives the colonel's son, Barton Cuyler, whose name has appeared from time to time in connection with aviation.

Cuyler was associated with various financial undertakings a year or so ago. One of them was understood to involve the purchase and sale of bananas.

The metals business in Jersey City was said by the police to have been started in April. When Cuyler was placed under arrest he was said to have been in his evening clothes, just ready to leave the Hotel Le Marquis, 12 East 31st street, to keep a social engagement.

FIGHT ON EXTRADITION PLANNED BY ATTORNEY
NEW YORK, May 18.—Cornelius F. Collins, Jr., an attorney, said late today that Telamon C. Cuyler, who describes himself as a Georgia lawyer, will fight extradition to Jersey City, N. J., where he faces charges arising from an alleged $200,000 swindle in the metal trades.

Collins said he had visited Cuyler in Tombs prison, but had not yet been retained formally as defense counsel. Collins said Cuyler also was visited by G. A. Judd, attorney and personal friend of Cuyler. Judd had not been located tonight.

Earlier, Detective Robert Coar said Cuyler had been removed from Tombs to Jersey City where a grand jury is scheduled to report tomorrow on charges against Cuyler and Joseph P. Brooks. However, a checkup showed Cuyler still was in Tombs and it was learned he had conferred with counsel.

Collins said he knew nothing of Cuyler's personal history, but that Cuyler had protested his innocence in the New Jersey transaction. Collins said he did not even know Cuyler's middle name. He also said Cuyler denied having been in Jersey at the time the alleged fraud was perpetrated.

Collins said the first step in Cuyler's defense would be to raise bail of $25,000 and then apply for a writ of habeas corpus. He refused to say who would be surety for the bond.

Cuyler refused to see reporters or to answer written questions and extensive efforts to identify him further were futile. Meager information obtained from him by police upon his arrest last Thursday said he claimed to be a West Point graduate, but authorities of the United States Military Academy reported no one of that name or a similar name ever finished there.

New York police said so far as their records showed, the pending case was Cuyler's first. At 12 E. Thirty-first, he registered in February as Telamon Cuyler, of New York, and despite Cuyler's assertion that "the best people of New York" are his friends, hotel employees said they knew nothing of his associates. Numerous other law enforcement agencies, including a division of the state attorney-general's office, the United States district attorney and postal authorities had no record of Cuyler.

In the New Jersey case authorities charge that Cuyler and Brooks, alias Price, had been operating from offices in Jersey City since March. They are accused of accumulating large quantities of various metals in a warehouse in Jersey, sent there on credit by reputable firms and held for resale. Their firm was known as Brydges & Bart. They are charged specifically with conspiracy and failure to register a corporation.

UTILITY CONTROL VOTED BY COUNCIL

"In order to render to the larger cities of Georgia and the public in general locally controlled public utilities service, which results in savings to the taxpayers, we hereby request the Fulton county representatives in the Georgia assembly to have enacted at the legislature some law transferring the authority and powers of the public service commission to the governing bodies of all municipalities having a population of 25,000 or more, according to the last federal census."

"Further resolved, that all representatives join in this move, and assist our representatives to have said law enacted."

"Further resolved, that the city clerk dispatch a copy of this resolution to Hon. Hugh Peterson, chairman of the governor's reorganization committee, of which is now in session at the state capital."

Berman Resolution.
The text of the Berman resolution follows:
"By Councilman Berman.
A resolution providing for the appraisal of the properties of the Atlanta Gas Light Company:
"Whereas, the city of Atlanta has appeared in opposition to an increase of rates on petition filed by the Atlanta Gas Light Company, with the Georgia public service commission, and
"Whereas, it appears that appraisals have been made by experts employed by the Atlanta Gas Light Company and by the commission, and
"Whereas, it is a matter of great importance to the citizens of Atlanta and this order when passed will be in effect for a long time, and payment of increased charges will fall very heavily upon quite a large number of users, and the city should do all it could to present to the commission all the facts pertinent and relevant to a finding upon such application;
"Therefore be it resolved by the mayor and general council, as follows:
"1. That the special committee appointed in re: this application be and it is hereby specially authorized to employ an expert to have an appraisal made of the properties of the Atlanta Gas Light Company, said expert to operate by organizing a corps of workers from citizens of Atlanta, as far as possible, and have a complete appraisal made of all said properties, provided the commission will authorize same.
"2. That the sum of five thousand ($5,000) dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, be appropriated for this purpose, and to meet this appropriation that the estimated receipts from general tax be increased in the sum of five thousand dollars."

RIALTO PROGRAM
POOR, CRITIC SAYS
"The W. Plan," with all-star cast. Newerel and short subjects. Babe Ruth in a Yankee-Indian game.

Candor forces the regretful admission that the program this week at the Rialto is not as good as it might be. The feature picture is a British illustration that Hollywood pictures are not so bad, after all. The comedy has been shown before and is merely a second-rate vaudeville patter team going through their routine before the camera.

There is a baseball short that shows Babe Ruth, Tris Speaker, Wally Pipp, Jack Quinn, etc., doing their stuff. It uses the slow-motion camera to illustrate just how Babe twists his shoulders and the speeded-up motion to inject some ancient comedy at the turnstiles.

You can date the picture by looking up the year when the Yankees and the Indians, under the respective managements of Miller Huggins and Tris Speaker, were "battling for the pennant." Of some historical interest.

The feature, "The W. Plan," was made in England. Evidently the scenarist, director and actors are still filled with the idea that all Germans are terrible creatures and all British soldiers are heroes. It may be hot stuff in England, but here it is merely a poorly-made and borsome war picture.

bodies of the municipalities, and the authorities granting such utility the authority to enter upon their premises, certainly should have authority to fix the price, etc., of their commodity; and

"Whereas, if such authority is granted the local governing bodies, the work of the public service commission will be greatly reduced, and under the state reorganization plan of Governor-elect Russell, the commission could be reduced to three commissioners, thereby saving the citizens of the state several thousands of dollars annually, and also increase the efficiency and render better service to the public generally.

"Therefore, be it resolved by the mayor and general council of the borough of Atlanta, Ga. as follows:
"In order to render to the larger cities of Georgia and the public in general locally controlled public utilities service, which results in savings to the taxpayers, we hereby request the Fulton county representatives in the Georgia assembly to have enacted at the legislature some law transferring the authority and powers of the public service commission to the governing bodies of all municipalities having a population of 25,000 or more, according to the last federal census."

SECKATARY HAWKINS TO GIVE AWAY 500 WHIP-IT TOPS

Five hundred Atlanta and Fulton county boys and girls have an opportunity of getting one of these wonderful new toys free by writing a letter to Seckatary Hawkins, care of The Constitution, and telling him how much they enjoy reading about his adventures each day.

The Seckatary will give tops to the writers of the 500 most interesting and neatest letters received. All that is necessary to enter the contest is for the boy or girl to be enrolled in some school in Atlanta or Fulton county, and to write his or her name and address, and the name of the school attended, at the top of their letter.

The Whip-It Top is more fun than the Yo-Yo ever was. It's just the thing for a good time this sunshiny weather.

Spin it once and you are a Whip-It Top enthusiast from then on. After you have learned how to spin it, you can get up teams and play Whip-It Top polo---and lots of other games and contests. Seckatary Hawkins will tell the boys and girls later on how to play these games.

REMEMBER THE WHIP-IT TOP IS GOING TO BE THE BIG THING THIS SUMMER! So write your letter TODAY and see if you cannot be one of the first 500 boys and girls in Atlanta to have one.

GRAND HOTEL

By VICKI BAUM

INSTALLMENT VII.

So one knew how old Grusinskaya was. There were old Russian aristocrats in exile, living in furnished mansions in Wilmerdorf, who asserted they had known Grusinskaya for many years. This assuredly was no exaggeration. But there was none in the past twenty years as an international celebrity to her credit, and twenty years of celebrity and success are an age. Sometimes Grusinskaya said to old Witte, who had been her friend and companion since the beginning of her career: "Witte, it is my fate to support a weight far too heavy for me, on and on, all my life long." And Witte answered earnestly: "Please let no one observe it, Elisaveta Alexandrovna. Do not speak of heaviness. The world has grown heavy. It is your mission, Elisaveta. If you will allow me to say so, to be lightness. Please do not alter. That would be the world's misfortune..."

Grusinskaya did not alter. She had weighed ninety-six pounds since the age of eighteen and in this last part of her success and her capabilities. Her partners, once accustomed to this lightness, could not dance with any one else afterwards. Her neck, her figure that seemed to be all joints, the beautiful oval of her face never changed. Her arms obeyed her will like wings. The smile that shone out beneath her long eyelashes was in itself a work of art. Grusinskaya bent all her force to one aim, to be as she had been. And she did not observe that it was exactly this of which the world began to tire.

Perhaps the world would have loved her as she really was, as she looked now, for example, sitting in her dressing room—a poor, decrepit, tired old woman with worn-out eyes and a small care-worn human face. When Grusinskaya did not have a success—and this sometimes happened now—days—she shrank into herself and became very aged in an instant, seventy years old, a hundred years old, older even than that. Suzette, in the background muttered her complaints in French as she stood over the grimy wash-basin and the hot water would not flow properly. Finally, however, she succeeded in getting the steaming compresses and Grusinskaya resigned her face to the tingling heat, while Suzette loosed her pearls from her neck, those world-tamed, almost fabulously beautiful pearls that came from the days of her grand duke.

"You can put the pearls away. I shall not wear them any more today," said Grusinskaya, catching sight of their rosy shimmer from beneath her half-closed eyelids.

"Not the pearls? But Madame ought to look her best for the banquet!"

"No. There, that's enough. Make the best of me without the pearls, Suzette," Grusinskaya said, and gave herself up with a reproach to the finger tips and the compresses and the rouge of her self-effacing factum. For this she had to go to a supper given in her honor by the Grand Society and for this she must be pointed in as deadly earnest as an Aztec warrior before he went to meet his enemies.

Witte walked in the passage outside the dressing room as patiently as a sentry. He tapped the case of his watch which he wore in the old-fashioned way, in the pocket of his white overcoat. His old musician's face betrayed anxiety and sadness. After a while, Pimenov, the ballet master, joined him, and then finally Michael came along. His eyes, lashes with vaseline and he was heavily powdered.

"Are we waiting for Gru?" he asked cheerfully. "Are we all going together?"

"I would advise you to vanish, my boy," said Witte, "however little you may have gone to pieces."

"But I didn't go to pieces. Pimenov, did I go to pieces?" he exclaimed almost in tears. Pimenov merely shrugged his shoulders. He too was an old man. He had a large nose that was full of character, and he loved to wear the old-fashioned cravats of the time of Edward VII. He did not dance any longer but only conducted the rehearsals and composed Grusinskaya's diversissements in a style of classical choreography full of birds and flowers and allegories, danced on the point of the toe. "Go to bed, don't face Gru tonight, Lucille has disappeared already," he said sagely.

Michael's youthful face rose in rebellion, and he knocked on the dressing-room door. "Good-night, Madame," he called out. "I am not going with you. What time is the rehearsal tomorrow morning?"

"Of course you're coming. You must sit next to me," Grusinskaya called back. "Don't make me so unhappy, cheri. We can talk about the rehearsal later. Wait for me. I'm just ready."

"Ladies—oh, douces ladies," Pimenov exclaimed, with his chin sunk in his collar.

"I would condemn my worst enemy to dance a pas de deux with Gru—if you'll pardon me, my dear fellow," Michael affirmed.

On the other side of the door Grusinskaya was dabbing powder behind the lobes of her ears in the brilliantly lighted mirror of the dressing room. Michael must be there, she thought, I always have old people about me. Pimenov, Witte, Lucile, Suzette. She had a sudden spasm of hatred for the worn-out hat that Suzette behind her was putting over her gray hair. She pushed her aside with an abrupt movement and went out into the passage carrying her cloak of black and gold and crumpe over her arm. She turned her shoulders to Michael to have her cloak put on. He did this with feminine delicacy, as he did everything. It was a little ceremony of reconciliation. But it was something more. It was an unspoken pleading on Grusinskaya's part for the freemasonry of youth. Michael was young; for Grusinskaya frequently changed her dancer. She was susceptible and exactly when it came to her partner, the rest had grown old with her in her service.

Now, at any rate, she looked dazzling. She was beautiful, distinguished, flower-like, resilient. "Elisaveta looks enchanting," said Witte, with a bow from a past century. He had accustomed himself to the use of studied expressions, firstly in order to conceal his love for Gru, to whom he had been devoted since his youth, and secondly, from the necessity of translating his speeches now into Russian, now into French, Grusinskaya herself slipped continually from one language into another, from the Russian "thou" into the French and English "you." She could speak German, too. She was as fluent in the one as the other, however abusive or however amiable it was necessary to be. It was not always easy to follow her. For example, she was no sooner in her motor car than she asked: "Do you think Witte, it was the fault of the pearls?"

"In what sense the pearls? And the fault of what?" asked Witte in dismay—for the second of his questions arose from pure sensibility. He knew well enough what Grusinskaya meant. "Mon Dieu, how do you mean the pearls?" Pimenov asked, too.

"Certainly I mean the pearls. They bring me bad luck, those pearls," she said with childish insistence. Witte failed, one old-fashioned glance, a kid glove in the other. "But, my dear," he said disconnectedly.

"What?" exclaimed Pimenov. "Why, the pearls have brought you luck all your life. They were your mascot, your talisman. And are you going to say now that they bring bad luck? What an idea, Gru!"

"They do bring bad luck all the time. I see it," Gru said with a will-willed frown between her artificially emphasized eyebrows. "I cannot explain it, but I have been thinking over it a great deal. They brought me luck as long as the Grand Duke Sergei was alive. Voila! Ever since he was murdered nothing but bad luck have they brought me. In London last year there was the sinew I broke in my ankle. At Nice—a deficit. And altogether nothing but bad luck. I will not dance in them any more. So now you know."

"Not dance in them! But, my dear, dearest Gru, you cannot possibly go on without your pearls. All your life long it has been your firm belief that you could not go on without the pearls, and now suddenly—"

"Yes," Grusinskaya said. "It was just a superstition." Witte began to laugh. "Lisa," he said, "my dove, dear little one, why you're a child!"

PIRATES' CLUB GIVES FANCY DRESS BALL NEXT THURSDAY

Hostesses Announced Today For Elaborate Course Dinner

Forrest Hills Golf Club will be the scene of the elaborate fancy dress ball to be given Thursday evening, May 21, by the Pirate Club of Atlanta at 10 o'clock. Each year this club, which is composed of an exclusive group of attractive members of the sub-deb contingent, who are eligible for membership during their junior year of high school, entertains at a dance for the sub-deb and college set, which is always an eagerly anticipated social event of the late spring. A progressive dinner will precede the dance at 7 o'clock, given by the Pirates inducted in the club during the past year, for which the guests will include the active members of the club and their escorts.

Hostesses Announced.

Miss Josephine Meador will entertain this group for the first course at her home on Peachtree circle. Miss Vaughn Nixon will be the assisting hostess. The main course will be served by Miss Helen Parker at her home on Palisades road, with Misses Frances Weinman, Joan Clarke and Katherine Letton as co-hostesses. The club will assemble at the home of Miss Laura Troutman on Peachtree circle for the salad course and Miss Louisa Robert will be the other hostess. Dessert will be served at the home of Miss Mary Cobb Hunnicutt on Seventeenth street, this charming young hostess will be assisted by Miss Kate Jenkins. After dinner coffee and an appetizing array of nuts, mints and cakes will be served by Miss Katherine Brooks at her home on Springdale road, after which this group will go to the club to be joined by the members of the Pirate Club who have finished school, but have not yet made a formal debut, and a large number of the college set.

Toboggan Slide.

The entrance to the spacious ballroom will be blocked by a toboggan slide down which guests must venture before being admitted to the dance. Kags decorated by skill and cross bones will be placed in the corners. Pirate pictures, swords and other appropriate signs will be features of the decorations. Colorful "gentlemen Pirates" and their ladies gorgeously arrayed in satins, rhestones and other booty will vie with the more ferocious, who carefully will be costumed in ragged clothing, carrying cutlasses and daggers and wearing curling mustaches and patches over their eyes.

A feature of the dance will be the election of the president of the club for the coming year, those eligible for this honor being members who are completing their junior year in high school. Another interesting event will be the Pirate lead-out when all the members of the club and their escorts will participate in a grand march, led by the president and her date, which will be followed by a dance when all lights will be turned low and each girl will carry a tiny, glowing flashlight.

Officers of the club are: Miss Catherine Brooks, president, and Miss Laura Whitner, secretary and treasurer. In addition to the hostesses for the dinner the active members include: Misses Lula Coker, Judy King, Harriett Grant and Charlene King. Parents of the active members will act as chaperones for the dance, and the mothers of the hostesses for the dinner will assist their daughters in entertaining.

Lady Macabees.

Lady Macabees, Hive 41, of Atlanta, gave an entertainment recently in the pine room in the Ansley hotel. The entertainers were: Bob and Speedy, Atlanta's radio stars, over WGST; Mrs. A. B. Strickland, a vocal pupil of I. H. Downing, gave several selections, and Ralph Richardson rendered saxophone and vocal numbers, with Joe Davis, accompanist.

This meeting was the first of a series of meetings given by the ladies in honor of their new state manager, F. A. Rock, who has been transferred here by the home office in Detroit, to take charge of the work in Georgia. The toastmistress, Mrs. Charles Maddux, arranged the program, which was a most enjoyable feature.

Atlanta Writers' Club.

Junior League Jottings

MRS. REGINALD FLEET, Editor

Beautiful flowers from the gardens of members of the Junior League will be used as decorations for the luncheon table at the closing meeting of the year. The luncheon will be held at the Piedmont Driving Club on Tuesday, May 26. The hour of 12:30 has been set for this event as the date of the luncheon coincides with the date of the formal summer opening of the Driving Club. As the luncheon will begin exactly at 12:30, the members are requested to be prompt.

Mrs. Claude MacGinnis is the chairman of the luncheon. She will be assisted by Mrs. Grady Black and Mrs. Edward Van Winkle. Members of the league who expect to attend the luncheon are requested to notify Mrs. MacGinnis at an early date. Mrs. John Knox is the chairman of entertainment for the luncheon.

The Junior League Marionettes have stepped into national fame. At the request of Paramount Sound News, sound pictures were taken of the performances of the Marionettes at the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children. The plays were presented out of doors with about thirty crippled children enjoying the Marionettes in a performance of "Hansel and Gretel" and "Cinderella." Safoes were taken of the plays, of the puppeteers and of the children proving themselves a most appreciative audience.

The Atlanta Junior League is more than pleased with the report from the Junior League conference that Atlanta won second place in the number of features accepted for publication in the magazine. Mrs. Lawrence Willet is the city editor for Atlanta for the Junior League Magazine.

Among the members of the league who have contributed articles, stories, sketches, humorous articles, book reviews and poems are Mrs. Lawrence Willet, Mrs. Preston Stevens, Miss Evelyn Jackson, Mrs. Rutherford Ellis, Mrs. Turner Jones, Mrs. Gracie Plant, Mrs. Emory Coker, Mrs. Reginald Fleet, Mrs. Edwin Coolidge and Mrs. Robert Foreman, Jr.

The arts and interests committee of the Junior League closed a most successful year with the musicale given to the members of the league by Miss Helen Riley, the director of the Atlanta Music Center; Mrs. Alex King, Jr., and Mrs. Charles Chalmers. Mrs. Trimble Johnson is the arts and interests chairman for Atlanta. This committee has presented during the past year a delightful series of programs, a talk on art by Charles Naegele, a reading of "The King's Henchman," by Dr. W. W. Memminger; a talk on "Edgar Allan Poe," by Dr. Frank Reade; a talk on books and book illustration by Mrs. Ruth Hinman Carter and a talk on "Decorations in the Home," by Mrs. Samuel Porter. Mrs. Porter very graciously entertained the members of the league at tea upon the conclusion of her talk.

Birthday Party.

Douglas Paine Saffarans, small daughter of Lieutenant William Saffarans and Mrs. Saffarans, of Fort Benning, will be honor guest at a party Sunday afternoon given by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Paine, at the Piedmont Driving Club in celebration of her third birthday. The guests will include a number of the very young contingent of society.

Speech Arts Club.

Speech Arts Club of the Atlanta School of Oratory and Expression, 402 Wesley Memorial church, meets this evening at 6 o'clock in the studio.

Of talks have been given under the sponsorship of the arts and interests committee and they have been an interesting addition to the Junior League year.

Mrs. Robert Foreman, Jr., and Mrs. J. C. Harris, Jr., have returned from the Junior League conference in Cincinnati. They will present their reports at the luncheon on next Tuesday.

Aquatic Display To Feature Druid Hills Club Flower Show

Mrs. J. A. Alexander, chairman of the aquatic display of the flower show sponsored by the Druid Hills Garden Club, which will be held this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at the Druid Hills Golf Club, has made elaborate arrangements to present something definitely new to delight floral enthusiasts. The aquatic exhibit will be on view in the broad glass-enclosed terrace of the club. Rare plants and tropical fish will be displayed in novel arrangements.

Miss Martha Edmondson is directing an art exhibit where flower displays will be framed and lighted to appear in the semblance of oil paintings. This is a new departure for the Druid Hills Garden Club and is stimulating much interest among Atlanta beauty lovers.

The usual exhibits of tables, specimens and artistic arrangements will be used to complete an outstanding Jr., Goodloe Yancey and Calvin Prescott. The publicity chairman is Mrs. Granger Hansell, assisted by Mrs. Anne Bates Walsh.

The officers of the Druid Hills Garden Club are Mrs. Charles Le Roux, president; Mrs. Henry Davis, vice president; Mrs. R. B. Wilby, recording secretary; Mrs. H. Lane Young, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Calvin Prescott, treasurer. An invitation is extended to all friends of the club and those interested in flowers to attend the show.

Boys' High P.-T. A. Group To Meet

Dr. Ralph Wager, of Emory University, will talk before the parental education group of Boys' High P.-T. A., which meets at the home of Mrs. W. V. Kingdon, on Springdale road, Thursday morning, May 21, at 10:30 o'clock promptly.

The executive board members of the Boys' High P.-T. A. will be the guests of Mrs. W. V. Kingdon, the president, at luncheon at her home Monday, May 25. The business session will precede the luncheon, and will begin at 10:30 o'clock. Reports of the various activities for the year will be read. Mrs. Kingdon requests those accepting the luncheon invitation to notify her by Friday, May 22.

Officers of the club are: Miss Catherine Brooks, president, and Miss Laura Whitner, secretary and treasurer. In addition to the hostesses for the dinner the active members include: Misses Lula Coker, Judy King, Harriett Grant and Charlene King. Parents of the active members will act as chaperones for the dance, and the mothers of the hostesses for the dinner will assist their daughters in entertaining.

This meeting was the first of a series of meetings given by the ladies in honor of their new state manager, F. A. Rock, who has been transferred here by the home office in Detroit, to take charge of the work in Georgia. The toastmistress, Mrs. Charles Maddux, arranged the program, which was a most enjoyable feature.

PASSING OF J. P. WALL DEPLORED BY COUNCIL

Council Monday afternoon passed resolutions denoting the death, May 10, of J. P. Wall, late chairman of the borough democratic executive committee. The paper was presented by Alderman G. Everett Milligan and J. Charlie Murphy and Councilman George B. Lyle and W. R. Johnson.

Text of the resolutions follows: Whereas, J. P. Wall was one of the most public-spirited citizens of Atlanta and a friend to all classes of mankind, and his death on Sunday, May 10, was a distinct shock and an irreparable loss to this city and its interests, all of which were close to his heart, Therefore, be it resolved that the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta do hereby tender the loss of Mr. Wall, and express to his family and business associates their deepest sympathy. Resolved that the board of commissioners of the city of Atlanta has lost one of its most valued members, and that the city democratic executive committee has lost its valued and faithful member. Be it further resolved that copies of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, to the city democratic executive committee, to the 1930 bond commission, and a copy be made of the permanent records of general council. But it further resolved that these resolutions be adopted by general council assembled in regular session Monday, May 18, 1931.

Everyday Terms Get Legal Definitions

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—The supreme court established two legal definitions for everyday terms today. Ruling that chocolate bars are candy within the meaning of a taxing statute, Justice Harlan F. Stone distinguished candy as something intended for "taste-gratifying consumption."

In deciding that New York city was polluting New Jersey's beaches by dumping its garbage at sea, Justice Pierce Butler said: "The complaint alleges that New York is dumping notions, offensive and injurious materials—all of which are for brevity called garbage—into the ocean." The crowd in the court room laughed at this.

ANNOUNCING

The Business Woman's Extra Shopping Hour Tuesdays . . . 5:30 to 6:30

Opening One Hour Later in the Morning! Closing One Hour Later in the Afternoon!

Tuesday Store Hours

10 A. M. to 6:30 P. M.

We are proud to number among our customers a vast number of busy business women who must hurry through their shopping within the limits of a lunch hour. Repeatedly, they have asked us to permit them to shop after store hours, but in justice to our employees this could not be done. Now, in response to more insistent requests, we have decided to remain open one hour longer one evening in each week . . . and, in order not to impose on our employees, to open one hour later in the morning. This plan was initiated recently by one of New York's foremost apparel shops and has been welcomed with overwhelming enthusiasm.

Tuesday from 5:30 to 6:30 Business Women's Fashions Will Be Modeled Informally. $9.75 Dresses and $5 Hats in the Popularity Shop on the Third Floor . . . $16.75 Dresses and $10 Hats in the Apparel Shops on the Second Floor. All Accessory Departments Will Participate. The Public Is Cordially Invited!

START ON NEW BRIDGE FOR BROAD ST. PUSHED

Acting Mayor G. Everett Millican Monday was empowered by council to enter into an agreement with the N. C. & St. L. railroad to advance the old supporting piers and erection of new ones preparatory to reconstruction of the Broad street viaduct.

A proposal from the county to expedite start of construction by turning plans and specifications and the $34,000 the board has voted for the work to the commission to advertise for bids was referred to Alderman John Scott.

C. E. Kauffmann, borough bridge engineer, is now engaged in working out the detailed plans, and has stated that they should be ready for approval of council by the June 1 meeting of that body.

Miss Helen Parker President of Pi Pi's

Miss Helen Parker, attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parker, was elected president of the Pi Pi sorority of Atlanta at the meeting held last week. Other officers who will serve with the capable president for the year 1931-32 include: Misses Maude Thompson, vice president; Leone Brooks, secretary; and Marian Clarke, treasurer. All of the officers are students at Washington Seminary, where Miss Parker and Miss Thompson will be in the senior class next fall and Miss Brooks and Miss Clarke will enter the junior class when the next term begins.

Interprets Modern Russian Composers

Of little knowledge to the general music audiences of America are compositions of Igor Stravinsky, Anatole Schoenberg and Alexander Medtner who are the apostles of the ultra-modern trend in Russian music. Out of the trio selected by Professor Anner for the evening devoted to above composers, the name of Igor Stravinsky doubtlessly is the best known in America through his appearance as guest conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra.

The program, which was held Sunday evening at the Jewish Educational Alliance, opened with Stravinsky's iconoclastic "Nocturne." This piece, while possessing all the earmarks of the conventional musical form, is unique in the annals of the accepted standards of harmony; it is written for the right hand in A Major and the left hand in D Flat. "Nocturne" was followed by "Variations" of the same composer.

Anatole Schoenberg's "The Song of a Madman" was ably delineated by Mr. Duner and the weird passages of this opus, fantastic flights of the demented mind, punctuated by the outbursts of mental agony and despair, were so realistic that it fairly held the audience in its eerie grip. Schoenberg's "Etude" and "The Slums" brought out the composer's conception of the influence of the machine age and mankind's submission to things mechanical.

For the closing numbers Mr. Duner selected Alexander Medtner's "Romance" and "Make Merry," the former providing a pleasant relief in its appealing melody, while the latter containing a rare, carefree, whimsically jocular spirit of the Ukrainian peasant.

Madam Mina Hoffman, whose previous appearances before the intimate circle of music lovers have always been the source of enjoyment, provided once more the vocal feature of the entertainment. Madam Hoffman, accompanied on the piano by Irving Lipsitz, rendered the aria from Tchaikovsky's opera, "The Maid of Orleans" ("Farewell to the Hills"), with all the pathos and consummate artistry which this difficult part calls for.

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE CAMPAIGN IS SUCCESS

Gratifying success in the subscription campaign being conducted by the Wesleyan Christian Advocate, publication of the North and South Georgia Methodist conferences, was reported Monday by Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, editor of the magazine.

New subscribers include a group of 360, involving more than $550, sent in by the Rev. C. Pierce Harris, pastor of St. Luke's Methodist church at Columbus, and formerly pastor of the Dalton Methodist church. This is said to be the largest block of subscriptions to a southern Methodist magazine ever sent in by a single church. The Rev. L. A. Harrell is presiding elder of the Columbus district.

Woodberry Alumnae Awards Miss Josephine Lawler Prize

Miss Josephine Ruth Lawler, popular member of the graduating class of Woodberry Hall, was awarded the alumnae prize for being the best all-around girl in this well-known school last evening at the graduating exercises held at the Atlanta Woman's Club. In recognition of the leadership she has shown in every school activity Miss Lawler was given this coveted honor, the award being made by Miss Charlotte Constantine, president of the Woodberry Hall Alumnae Association.

Miss Hermes Jacobs, a member of the junior class at Woodberry, won the prize awarded by the Atlanta Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, for writing the best essay, the subject of which was Stratford-on-the-Potomac. Miss Genevieve Wright was given honorable mention in this award which was made by Mrs. John A. Perdue, honorary president of the Georgia division, U. D. C.

Miss Evelyn Burns was winner of the best essay prize given by the Atlanta Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the subject being "The Washington Bicentennial." Miss Lucile James received honorable mention in the D. A. R. contest, the prize being presented to the winner by Mrs. Bun Worle, state regent of the Georgia D. A. R. Society.

Mrs. Harvie Jordan presented the prize for the best essay on "Some Outstanding Figures of the War of 1812" to Miss Linda Wilson, with Miss Muriel Wilhoit receiving honorable mention. This prize was given by the Daughters of 1812.

For outstanding work in dramatic arts Miss Muriel Wilhoit was the winner, the award being made in recognition of her leadership in this field and in appreciation for the brilliant work she accomplished in directing the May Day celebration, in which she took a prominent part as well as training the dancers for the occasion. Miss Rosa Woodberry, principal of the school, made this award.

Prior to the awarding of the essay prizes Dr. H. J. Gertner, of Oglethorpe University, delivered a very eloquent address appropriate of the occasion. The welcome address was made by Miss Ruth Layfield, representative of the senior class and an honor graduate. Miss Rose Lieblich Cleary, a first honor graduate, delivered the valedictory.

Following the delivery of the diplomas the graduates were honored by the reception given by Miss Woodberry in the banquet hall of the club at which a large number of friends and relatives assembled. The 19 young graduates wore exquisite gowns of white chiffon and carried large bouquets of pink roses and white sweetpeas.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Do you know what it means to be separated from your best loved one and to watch the miles day in and day out without getting the wished-for letter? If you do, you can sympathize with me and maybe you can tell me what to do to forget. Twenty-four hours a day is not enough for my heart to beat. I have been married thirty days a month is used up without anything to show for my pain. How long does it take to learn to control your thoughts when they wander continually to one who evidently does not spend much time thinking about you? From experience I know that a quarter of a year is not enough. And judging from the way I feel now four times that much will not be enough for me.

WAITING

ANSWER:

Time will cure the worst pain in the world but time may be interminable. If you don't help it along, there is a lot of things that enable you to push it fast. The chief of these is hard work. That is one of the reasons that men forget faster and more completely than women. Women's work is of the sort that enables them to think while they work, think of other things than what they are doing. Washing dishes, peeling potatoes, making beds and sweeping and dusting are hand work and require only a minimum of head work. Consequently, a woman may be faithful in these duties and at the same time give her thought to other things that concern her. A man goes to his office, or his store, or his shop, and he interviews people and dictates letters and sells and buys, all personal contacts which require his closest concentration on the thing at hand. He has no time to grieve over affairs of the heart or to waste any time in sympathy on the woman of his acquaintance who may be grieving.

Then the thing to do is pattern our lives by theirs and plunge into some absorbing work which will not allow time for thought or anything else.

Another aid to forgetting is the reason. Here again the men have the edge on us. We are accustomed to tackle every problem with several other tools before we use our reason, while the men use reason first. They are not to be commended, nor are we, for these methods. It is, in each case, an instinctive method of the sex. We feel our way along through any dark night of doubt or fear or trouble. They think their way along. We use our hearts instinctively, while they use their heads. Sometimes we can beat them at their own game but it is by utilizing natures that we do it.

When a woman is thoughtful enough to write the letter you have written, she is, or should be, reasonable enough to know that she has not changed the unhappy circumstances of her life. She has not pulled the letter out of the box by wishing. She has not learned to control her thoughts by letting them wander and she has not healed her pain by pitying herself. Therefore, everything she has done has been wrong, or, at least, ineffective. When people love each other a yearning in one heart may communicate itself to the other. When people are drawn toward each other in the bonds of a great sympathy there may be some sort of telepathic communication between them when the connection is broken by lack of love on one side or, when it never existed, because of lack of interest on one side, yearning and weeping, leaving the garments is perfectly useless.

Last night I was listening to the returns of a boxing match over the radio. In the middle of the most exciting part the connection was broken. I was eager to hear the results of that fight, as were thousands of others, but our eagerness availed us nothing. We could not hear the results when the connection was broken by lack of love on one side or, when it never existed, because of lack of interest on one side, yearning and weeping, leaving the garments is perfectly useless.

So I, like the others, diverted myself with a book and forgot all about the fight until the morning paper arrived. By that time I was quite indifferent to it. Don't you see from this simple illustration that the fretting and the counting the years and the wondering when the connection will be made is a waste of time that you might be using to better advantage, advantage too, which in the end will make you quite indifferent to the matter that appears so vital to you at this moment.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

BEAUTY FASHIONS

A PRETTY MORNING OR PORCH FROCK.

7180. Printed voile in blue and white on a blue background was chosen for this dainty model. Collar and cuffs are of organdy. The waist portions are lengthened by flare skirt sections at curved lines. Serviceable pockets trim the waist front. The shoulder lines extend to form short sleeve portions, that are finished with upturned cuffs. The V neckline is outlined by a broad collar. A narrow belt holds the fullness of the dress at normal waistline.

Designed in four sizes, small, 34-36; medium, 38-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A medium size will require 3-2-4 yards of 35-inch material. For collar and cuffs of contrasting material 5-8 yard 25 inches wide is required. To finish with bias binding as shown in the large view will require 7 yards 1-2 inches wide. ## YOUTH RELAYS WORLD GOOD WILL MESSAGE

School Boy in Washington Telephones to London to Complete Circuit.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—From a table in the senate foreign relations committee room, Robert Hild, deep-voiced schoolboy, telephoned to London a message of international good will relayed round the world today by youth of the two hemispheres.

Chairman Borah, of the senate committee, welcomed Hild and nine other youngsters who consummated the conversation celebrating goodwill day, anniversary of the first Hague conference meeting in 1899.

Education officials and organized peace advocates listened while the youths forwarded the greeting that had traveled 10,000 miles between 48 state capitals, beginning in California.

The Idahoan said in a statement that "for peace we cannot depend upon diplomats and the ways of governments, there must be organized public opinion, and that must come through the education of the youth."

Excitement shone from the children's faces when the telephone rang and the voice of John Henry Bradley, London schoolboy, said: "Hello, Washington?"

"It is a strange feeling to be talking across the Atlantic ocean," Bradley began. "But I have no time. Oh, I say, can you hear me, Washington?"

"Sure, go ahead!" Robert responded.

Then into ear phones came John's transmission of messages that had traveled to London from Java, from New Zealand from a dozen European and Asiatic countries.

"I am very glad indeed to be able to hear you, London?" Robert came back.

"Very well indeed," the children heard, smiling.

"War is out of date," Robert said, adding, "Perhaps next year we will be able to see each other as we talk."

The conversations were arranged by the World Federation of Education Associations, in co-operation with the National Council for Prevention of War. Before the final exchange, the states' greeting was spoken by the children to Mexico, Canada and Chile.

HOOVER FINDS MEANS TO SAVE $17,000,000

President Visions Budget Cut for Interior Department's Work.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—President Hoover returned from his Rapidan camp tonight convinced that $17,000,000 could be saved in the interior department in the next three years.

This conviction was the result of conferences held at the camp with officials of the department. Much of the saving was planned in eliminating some of the department's activities and deferring work which eventually will have to be done.

It was estimated that $4,000,000 could be saved this year; $5,000,000 to $7,000,000 next year; and $7,000,000 to $8,000,000 the following year. Just what activities of the department would be curtailed was not announced. Neither was there any indication of what projects would be deferred.

The party's intention to remain in camp until Monday morning was interrupted by showers about lunch time, and the threat of further rain brought the stay to a close this afternoon. It was feared the dirt road leaving the camp would be dangerously slippery later. Mr. Hoover had preferred to avoid heavy Sunday afternoon traffic near the capital.

"Can you hear me, London?" Robert came back.

"Very well indeed," the children heard, smiling.

"War is out of date," Robert said, adding, "Perhaps next year we will be able to see each other as we talk."

The conversations were arranged by the World Federation of Education Associations, in co-operation with the National Council for Prevention of War. Before the final exchange, the states' greeting was spoken by the children to Mexico, Canada and Chile.

Cotton Seed, Live Stock Combine Seen as Road to Prosperity

NEW ORLEANS, May 18.—(AP)—The twin development of the cottonseed and livestock industries was held up today by speakers before the National Cotton Seed Products Association convention as a combination calculated to bring about a more prosperous southern agriculture in the same way that corn and livestock have aided the farmer in the middle west.

In discussions on the convention floor, it was pointed out that the wide distribution of mills makes the by-product of cottonseed available to livestock owners as feed at minimum cost.

The need for increasing both supply and demand in cottonseed industry was pointed out by Earl S. Haines, Memphis, Tenn., executive secretary of the association, who presented the report of an economics survey committee covering the past three seasons, in which it was pointed out that overcapacity of the mills in the face of lack of sufficient seed to keep them busy more than four months of the year presents a serious problem.

WINDOW WASHERS JAILED ON SUNDAY

BALTIMORE, May 18.—(AP)—Another thing you can't do on Sunday in Baltimore is to wash windows. William Borden and Peter Bucowski were arrested by a patrolman, in the very act, he said, of applying water to a dirty pane at the new headquarters of a club. They posted $645 in collateral for a hearing today.

All work on Sunday in Maryland is prohibited by a statute more than 200 years old. It was modified in 1920 to permit drug stores and gasoline stations to operate and the recent legislature gave Baltimore the right to vote on the question of Sunday labor sales and amusements.

SOUTHERN ATTITUDE ON LABOR IMPROVING

DANVILLE, Va., May 18.—(AP)—Francis J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, said today that a more tolerant attitude toward union labor was noticeable throughout the south as a result of the Danville textile strike and the American Federation of Labor's southern campaign.

Mr. Gorman, who had charge of the organization of textile workers in the Riverside and Dan River Cotton mill here, spoke on the strike at the afternoon session of the Virginia State Federation of Labor.

MILLICAN TO NAME WORLD'S FAIR BODY

By unanimous vote council Monday afternoon took the first step in a movement leading to a world's fair here, beginning May 1, 1937, in observance of Atlanta's centennial.

The measure was offered by Councilman George B. Lyle, of the eleventh ward, and was given approval of council as co-author. It was sponsored by M. D. Gleason, widely known in fraternal circles.

Under provisions of the paper, the mayor is empowered to appoint a committee to co-operate with county, state and national government in the observance and it is expected that Acting Mayor G. Everett Millican will name the body this week.

Pointing out that the world's fair would serve to strengthen Atlanta's already recognized leadership in the south, that a world's fair would re-establish business on a firm footing, that many thousands of men and women would be given employment and that it would attract many thousands of visitors to Atlanta, the resolution ordered that Mayor James E. Cox name a committee to be requested to "invite the whole world to Atlanta."

Sanitary protection must be made with strictest care, like Kotex, to protect health in every way

SURFACE resemblance to Kotex is not enough! Your sanitary protection must be clean, like Kotex, through and through. Hygienically clean. Made under rigid sanitary conditions. Only then can you know your health is protected in every way.

You have this assurance with Kotex. It's the world's standard. Hospitals use it—it fully meets their requirements.

But how about substitutes? But how is one to know about nameless substitutes, of whose makers you know nothing? How are they made? Where? What assurance have you of their fitness for this purpose?

IN HOSPITALS . . .

Coast's Track Performances Shut East Out of Intercollegiates

TRUMBULL SEES WESTERN STARS HOLDING POWER

Eastman's Record-Tieing Quarter Lauded as Outstanding Performance.

By Walter Trumbull.

(Copyright, 1931, by The Constitution by the National American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.) Sport showed many fine performances last week, but none finer than that of Ben Eastman, of Stanford, who ran the quarter in 47.4 seconds, equalling the record made by Ted Meredith 15 years ago. Vic Williams, of Southern California, finished with an arm's length of the winner, which was good running. Frank Wyckoff, in the 100-yard dash, beat that other great sprinter, Hector Dyer, in 9.5 seconds. They grow athletes on the Pacific coast.

Looking over the performances of Saturday it is hard to see where the east is going to take many first places in the coming intercollegiate. The fastest sprinters in the country seem to be such men as McDonald, of Yale; Wilcox, of Wesleyan; Moore, of Army, and a few others, but none of them look dangerous in the middle when matched with the fliers of the middle west and far west.

Calvin Milans, of Dartmouth, may do something in the high jump, and Dunner, of Dartmouth, is a good jumper. Pennsylvania may have some men who will give other sections a tussle. Take Barney Berlinger, of Pennsylvania, a good one-man track team, but he spreads his abilities over too many events to realize his possibilities in any one event. There are a couple of good collegiate hammer throwers in the east, and some promising hurdlers of the javelin. Then is Russell Chapman of Bates.

Columbia, Cornell and Harvard are the crews which have shown unmistakable power and speed this season. Between 1900 and 1910, Cornell won eleven races at Poughkeepsie. It did not win again until last year, but this present boatload from Ithaca is going to be dangerous, and likely to be an Atlantic, rather than a Pacific product.

Columbia won on the Hudson in 1914, 1927 and 1929. Stanford finished second to Cornell in 1915, and since 1921, California and Washington state have been prominent. Columbia has one of its greatest crews, so unless the west sends on a pretty speedy shell, this year's regatta is likely to be an Atlantic, rather than a Pacific product.

As for the race at New London, Harvard has, in its preliminary work, shown better than Yale, but that doesn't mean much. When these two old rivals compete, advance dope runs for Mr. Sweeney on the end book.

There is still conversation concerning the bout between Tommy Loughran and Vittorio Campolo. It greatly resembled a contest between a skilful matador and a big game bull. Campolo charged and hooked with viciousness and had all his ambition and activity didn't get him very far.

As John E. Madden used to say: "When a man shoots at a bird and misses, that is one for the bird." That is one thing Campolo can do—use his left.

OVEREMPHASIS.

The University of Havana (Cuba) isn't worrying about overemphasis with football, baseball, basketball, track, rowing and tennis on the program. They like the game but not the training.

Bobby Hooks, Former Bulldog, Signs To Fight for Striblings

'PA' CONFIDENT NEW PROSPECT WILL DELIVER

Kayo Victory at Auditorium Monday Night Convinces "Pa."

By Ed Danforth.

Bobby Hooks, who used to lug the leather for the Red and Black of Georgia, will sling the leather now for the Black and Blue of the House of Striblings.

After Bobby had fought his third professional boxing match at the city auditorium last night and had knocked out Irish Patsy Corbett, of Calhoun, Ga., Pa. Stribling signed him to a contract. That means that Bobby will get plenty of work in his new profession.

Hooks was overtrained last night and was five pounds underweight. In addition he was nervous over his first appearance on an important card before an Atlanta crowd. To cap it all his opponent butted him in the forehead. Blood from this cut obscured his vision throughout the fight.

WILLING FIGHTER.

But he showed a willingness and ruggedness beyond the ordinary and a tendency to follow up his advantages to the limit.

"I think Hooks will make a good fighter in time; he is one of the best prospects I have seen," was Pa Stribling's comment.

The Striblings—the whole family with exception of Herbert—together with Miss Edith Nolan, secretary, and Jack Bell, sports editor of the Miami Herald, will leave by automobile today for Cleveland. Sparring partners and cooks are being taken along, too. Training camp will be opened at Geauga Lake with a full staff of help from ringside to kitchen. The Striblings will have an all-southern retinue. Lake Russell, coach at Mercer University, will join the camp as trainer.

W. L. LOOKS GREAT.

Stribling looked great in his exhibition bout with Cleo Smith, of Fort Benning, last night as the special attraction on the fight card. His left hand was as fast as ever, it seemed, and he worked a great deal on a right hook to the body, a blow he is improving these days. It will come in very handy against the rugged opponent as Max Schmeling when they meet July 3 for the championship of the world.

Stribling's next appearance in a ring before the public will be in the formal opening of his training camp May 30.

stuck in there and earned a big hand for his gameness.

Clint Townes, a smart youngster who is being coached by Uncle Billy Lotz, fought a fast six-round draw with Billie Pickle, of Macon. They were both good.

In the opening bout of the program, Danny Russo, of Philadelphia, was given a six-round decision over Roy Smith, of Rome, Georgia. Russo obviously was more experienced.

Tim O'Dowd refereed the preliminary fights in excellent style. Jake Able was the third man in the ring for Stribling's exhibition and for the main bout, handling both well.

There was a good crowd out to see the matches. "Pa" Stribling will promote another here after the title fight in July.

Southern League Results—365 Days Ago

Little Rock 15, Birmingham 2—Ray Caldwell was blasted off the hill in the fourth, by which time the Peaches had nine runs and 11 hits. The Travelers got 20 hits, Ross getting a homer and two singles and driving in five runs. Leo Moon manning the batons.

New Orleans at Chattanooga, rain.

Nashville 14, Mobile 4—Sunny Jim Poole clouted his tenth homer of the season. Chuck Willis, Nashville pitcher, gave up 15 hits, but the Bears had 12 base runners stranded.

Memphis 3, Atlanta 2—The Chicks bunched hits in two innings for victory. Atlanta went scoreless after the first frame when three hits, an error and a base on balls produced two runs.

With all these billboards and things, the "great out-of-doors" is getting to look like a beauty test.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By Krautman Rice

The Marching A's.

WHEN Connie Mack's Athletics won their ninth straight game on Sunday, most of these picked up on the road, they passed out the tip that it will take something of a miracle to head them off from the third pennant and probably a third world's series with almost the same cast.

As Joe McCarthy remarked early in the season, "They'll tell you the Athletics have five great ball players in Cochran, Simmons, Fox, Grove and Earnshaw. They have. But they seem to overlook the fact that outside of these Athletics have their share of good ball players who round out a team, and a pretty complete team at that."

Which is all true. No stars will ever dominate the play of a team directed by Connie Mack, Eddie Collins and Kid Gleason. Cochran and Simmons are two of the best ball players of all time, but they also fit perfectly in any team combination as both are hustlers and at their best in any sort of pinch that might arise.

Yankees and Senators are both strong this season and should be the two main challengers, but it will take something of a super drive to ever halt that team of Mack's. It can be done, but it is a job.

No Fluke Interest.

There seemed to be a feeling in some quarters that baseball's early popularity would soon fade out. If anything, it has increased. Eight games on Sunday drew close to 200,000 spectators and in three cities many thousands were turned away from the parks packed to the last square foot.

In times of depression there is always a yearning to seek some excitement and action, and baseball happens to be within reach of the average person.

The season's attendance record, game for game, is now well above any figures ever known before, and if one or two clubs don't gallop away from the field this interest will hold. Five different attendance records have been cracked so far in interclub series. And June is still two weeks away.

The Best Golfer.

When Bobby Jones remarked that in his opinion Joyce Wethered was the best golfer he ever saw, the general impression was that he meant the best woman golfer. Jones made no such qualification.

On Sunday at Westward Ho, Miss Wethered beat the best ball of Robert Harris and J. B. Pease 4 up and 3 to play, with no help from her brother. Westward Ho is one of the best of the championship links. It calls especially for fine play in the wind.

Robert Harris was captain of the British Walker cup team and one of Britain's best amateurs. Pease is a ranking British amateur. You can see just how well Miss Wethered must have been hitting the ball.

Here is something else. Recently she played six consecutive rounds over standard courses with scores that varied from 71 to 72. Her average was around 72, and this was from the championship tees. It is doubtful if any male amateur now playing could have equaled these figures.

"I've never seen any one," Bobby Jones remarked, "who could keep on hitting a golf ball as accurately as Miss Wethered does. She never seems to hit a bad shot with any club."

Roger Wethered was runner-up to Bobby Jones at St. Andrews last year and yet was not able to help his famous sister at any stage in their record-making tour. He had no lapses that needed protection.

The Best Come-Back.

The leading comeback act of the new season belongs to Tommy Loughran. When Jack Sharkey nailed the Philadelphian between the eyes some two years ago, Loughran's heavy-weight dream seemed to be over. In the last few months Loughran's improvement has been remarkable. His recent victory over Campbell, giving him 40 pounds or more, height and reach as well, was a big boost for boxing skill.

If this had come about in his younger years it would have been something to talk about. Coming as it does after 12 or 13 years of active campaigning, you pick up a story one seldom hears in ring competition.

Loughran has earned one of the big summer slots and he is sure to get his chance again.

The Worried French.

With the United States and Great Britain showing increased tennis strength, the French are beginning to wonder when the cyclone will die down. Ill health still has Lacoste out of competition and now sickness has stopped Cochet for a while and may interfere with his effectiveness later on.

Borotra has just lost a match to one of Great Britain's young stars and is too old to carry the bulk of the burden. The French still have enough tennis strength to hold any cup, but that won't help if it happens to be bottled up in a hospital. In any event, the entire tennis situation is more open now than it has been in years.

The French championship, now under way, will give a good line on the situation as it stands before Wimbledon starts.

Sigma Chi Swamps Foes at Emory, 28-4

Sigma Chi won a loosely played baseball game from Alpha Epsilon Pi, 28-4, Monday afternoon on the Emory diamond.

The Sigma Chi's scored 10 runs in the second inning and 11 in the fourth.

S. A. Hauck, Sigma Chi hurler, walked 11 men during the five-inning fray, forcing in two runs thereby.

VOIGT BREEZES TO THIRD ROUND IN DEVON MEET

Only 30 Holes Needed by American in British Amateur.

By Frank H. King, Associated Press Staff Writer.

WESTWARD HO, DEVON, England, May 18.—George Voigt, American contender for the British Amateur golfing throne that Bobby Jones renounced, today marched halfway through the field of the 1931 championship tournament to the third round.

It took the slim New Yorker but 30 holes against stern opposition to win his first and second round matches. He defeated T. H. Bowman, a farmer and Norfolk champion, in the first, 4 and 3, and then disposed of Francis Edwards, athletic young officer from His Majesty's Crack Guards regiment, in the second, 5 and 3.

ONE ROUND SET.

Voigt will play his one round tomorrow, meeting J. R. Abercrombie, of the Royal Liverpool club, who today defeated the American movie star, Douglas Fairbanks, and one other.

While Voigt was the big golfing attraction of the day, Fairbanks carried away the biggest gallery and held the most of it by fairly good golf rather than any thespian activities. Fairbanks contributed to his own defeat by marked himself a generous sportsman when he conceded his opponent's final putt. It was at least a yard away from the hole, a distance not always safe even for the best golfers.

Voigt apparently had other things on his mind and was not unhappy at his defeat. He left immediately after the match to meet his wife, Mary Pickford, who landed in London from the home.

The championship began with delightful informality and rural simplicity, a characteristic of this remote spot in Devonshire.

EVERYBODY THERE.

All the villagers roundabout seemed gathered on the course today, which is a common sight. The day was played over the fairways and one youngster turned somersaults on the eighteenth green until he was shooed off so a match could be played.

Dozens of mothers with their babies in prams, followed Fairbanks nearly five miles around the course, and several score schoolboys besieged him with autograph books even in defeat.

The flocks of sheep, which keep the fairways of Westward Ho! (the natives insist on calling it that) were undisturbed during the day's play. The lambs bleated plaintively, babies cried, cows moaned and dogs barked and nobody paid any attention to them.

Voigt seemed suggested that a few sheep be moved out of the line of a mangle shot to the fifteenth green, but he was not proved a bit stubborn, George said to let him alone as he was a good marker on the line to the pin.

FIELD CUT IN HALF.

The field was reduced in half to four, although some players such as Joshua Crane, American veteran, and Cyril James Haxell, English, had played a single match as yet. This is caused by the intricate system of byes, which reduce the field to an even number for the third round.

Voigt appears to have a comparatively easy path ahead of him in his quarter draw, only Eric Fiddian looms as a possible menace between him and the semi-finals.

Five Americans fell by the wayside today. Ross Thompson, of Uniontown, Pa.; L. R. Phillips, of Santa Barbara, Cal.; Johnny De Paolo, of Los Angeles; Frank Sweeney, of London, formerly from California, and Fairbanks.

Voigt, Douglas Grant, former Californian; Tom McGuire, of Stockton, Cal., won today and Charles Lewis, of New York, and J. H. Hudson, of Oakland; J. H. Forsman, of Manhattan, N. Y., and R. B. Foster, former American now of London, and Crane play tomorrow. H. Scheffel, an American student at Oxford, scratched.

Owners of Lake Geauga, where W. L. (Young) Stribling will train his fight with Max Schmeling, are considering renaming the lake Stribling lake. Which, you must admit, would be an improvement on the present name.

Hunch Players.

The Bainbridge race track is located a few miles from the training site. The hunch players take comfort in that because W. L. Stribling was born in Bainbridge, Ga.

Out in Front.

L. O. Mostly, of the Ansley, is the only hotel manager in town who stands in front of his hotel for an hour or so every morning saying "hello" to passers-by. It's a good habit.

Hotel Chairs.

The Claridge hotel in Memphis is the only one left in any of the larger cities where they still have a long row of comfortable chairs in front for the paying guests to sit in. And do they like them? Try and get a seat in one. The hotel is "home" for the Crackers when they are on the road.

And the Rates.

Baseball clubs are getting cheaper rates this year than they have had in the past 15. A dollar a day for a double room with bath is the rate in some good inns.

A Real Town.

Atlanta is the only minor league city in organized baseball to draw crowds of well over 200,000 per season without Sunday baseball. Think what the rate would be with the Sunday game.

The Owner-Fan.

Joe Engel, of the Chattanooga Lookouts, is the real fan among the owners. That is, he is a fan if he

'Doug' Fairbanks Hero of Women At Westward Ho!

By Bernard Darwin, British Golf Expert.

WESTWARD HO, DEVON, England, May 18.—Devonshire flappers and women with babies in perambulators crowded the old Westward Ho golf course today, not because they cared a rap for the game, but to see Douglas Fairbanks begin his match with J. R. Abercrombie, of the Royal Liverpool Club.

Internationally known players went unnoticed by the crowd that swarmed around the famous moving picture star, who was attired in a high-necked mustard-colored sweater and dark brown put. J. R. Abercrombie, of the Royal Liverpool Club.

The largest gallery of women ever to appear on the historic grounds of this course audibly commented on Fairbanks' appearance. "I thought he was a big cave man," one woman remarked, surprised that he could appear almost like an ordinary business man of medium height.

The star's caddy was the smaller of the two players might have been trying to sell them chocolates.

Five hundred women gathered on the hilltop that commands a magnificent view of the sea, and saw nothing but "Doug" today looked with awe when he won the fifth hole, almost under their noses. Abercrombie was out of the picture so far as the audience was concerned.

For all the women cared, the veteran golf player might have been trying to sell them chocolates.

Nor were they engrossed in anything but the actor's personality when the dramatic finish of the match came. Fairbanks lost by only one hole, after two magnificent drives which evened the score twice before the game was over.

"Oh, Doug!" a girl yelled from the gallery, and others took up the cry.

He was besieged by a mob of men, women and children on the eighteenth green and nearly got written's cramp giving away autographs. When he finally broke away to the clubhouse, he was pursued by the mob of his cheering women.

Even the declaration that he was going to change his clothes and catch a train to meet Mary Pickford, who was to have a quieting effect on the swirling crowd of women.

Voigt finally eluded them all and packed hurriedly. Dale Bourn, English speed champion, offered to drive him to Barnstable, 15 miles away, in Loughlin failed to have a Devonshire lanes at 60 miles an hour, arriving with only a minute to spare.

Cuthbert Nine Takes Edge in Title Series

AMERICUS, Ga., May 18.—A powerful invading nine from Cuthbert earned an edge in the three-game series which the local district high school baseball championship, by winning here this afternoon, 10 to 1.

The locals trailed by one run until the eighth inning, but four-run spurts then and in the ninth frame put the game away for Cuthbert.

Rutland, Cuthbert pitcher, gave up but six scattered hits. Cuthbert touched Jones and Hogg for a total of 14 safeties.

The second game of the series will be played in Cuthbert tomorrow afternoon.

Tech Frats Enter Semi-Final Round

Georgia Tech's interfraternity baseball league entered the semi-final round Monday afternoon when the A. T. O.'s defeated the Sigma Chi, 3 to 2, on Lower Rose Bowl field.

The A. T. O.'s will play Phi Sigma Kappa Wednesday for the right to meet Kappa Sigma for the fraternity title.

Monday's game was a pitchers' battle between Ryals, of the winners, and Stribling, of the losers. Ryals kept five hits well scattered with the exception of the first and seventh innings, while the winners bunched hits in the fifth to score three runs.

Sleeping Beauty.

Tom Watkins, owner of the Memphis club, usually goes to the ball park at noon before a game and takes a short nap of about a half hour. He sleeps on an old leather sofa. Frank Longmire, of the same Memphis club, suffers more than any other secretary when the club is losing.

PIEDMONT PARK BEING GROOMED FOR RING SHOW

Sixth Cavalry Encamps at Park; Preliminaries Start Today.

Piedmont park took on a military air yesterday with the arrival of the sixth United States cavalry from Fort Oglethorpe, and the setting-up of their model encampment on the polo field, where the troops will remain throughout this week and take an important part in the horse show, which opens a brilliant three-day program in the Piedmont ring Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

The troops rode out of the Southeastern Fair Grounds, where they had been encamped since they reached Atlanta May 8, early Monday morning, and gave civilians a pleasant thrill as they trekked through the city streets.

GETTING READY.

Colonel Ryan H. Humphrey, commanding officer, and Lieutenant Henry I. Hobbs, in charge of the horse show team, will be busy during the next few days grooming their entries for the show. The cavalrymen have a number of seasoned jumpers and hunters, a fine string of polo ponies and some four-line teams that they confidently expect to win major honors in the ring.

The location chosen for the horse show ring is the same as that selected last year—a charming setting down in the arena of Piedmont park. Preliminary elimination judging in large military classes will begin at the show grounds this afternoon at 1 o'clock and again Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

REGULAR CARD.

The first event on the program Thursday, will be staged promptly at 1 o'clock, and the 17 classes constituting the schedule of events for that day will follow in smooth and rapid succession. A colorful exhibition drill by the sixth United States cavalry will open the show and an equally spirited musical drill will bring each day's program to a close.

With 250 entries already registered this year's exhibit will surpass all previous shows by a wide margin. The military atmosphere will be enhanced by the presence of large contingents from Fort Benning Infantry school, Fort McPherson, the twenty-ninth United States infantry and the aforementioned sixth United States cavalry team.

Tickets for the show are on sale at headquarters offices, where Mrs. Eugene Harrington is handling the advance sale with the assistance of a large committee of the Young Matrons' Circle for Tallulah Falls school, who are sponsoring the show under the leadership of their president, Mrs. Bernard Nash.

Box seats are $2 each, six seats being provided in each box. Grandstand tickets (general admission) are $1 each. Tickets for the benefit dance which the Young Matrons' Circle will give at the Piedmont Driving Club Thursday night from 10 to 1 a. m. may be obtained either at headquarters or from Mrs. Green Dool Warren, chairman for the horse show dance.

TARZAN, LORD OF THE JUNGLE No. 86

Quickly Blake was bound while the Arabs debated what should be done with him. One tried to slit his throat. It was then that Guinalda tore free and threw herself upon Blake's body. "Thou shalt not slay him!" she cried. "Take my life instead." "They cannot understand you, Guinalda," said Blake. He begged that they give the Princess her liberty, but the Arabs only laughed.

"They must not kill thee," wept the girl. "Canst thou forgive me my cruel words? I did not mean them?" "I love you—I love you, Guinalda," cried Blake. The Arabs dragged her away after deciding to leave Blake to die where he lay. As they bore her from his sight, she called back through the falling night, three little words—"I love thee"—and then the retreating footsteps died away in the distance.

The great red moon rose high above the distant mountains. For awhile all was silence as Blake struggled futilely to free himself. What was that? Came the sound of stealthy, padded feet. Hark! There must be another in a nearby tree. Blake was sure he could see a shadowy form almost above him. Presently into the moonlit space stepped a great leopard. Its blazing eyes burned into the helpless man like fire.

inch by inch the beast crept upon Blake. Now it was about to spring. Horridly, the man could not take his eyes from the hideous, snarling face. He saw it leap suddenly with catlike lightness and agility and at the same instant he saw something flash through the air. The leopard stopped in mid-leap and was jerked backward. Then to his astonishment, Blake saw it being hauled upward into a tree that overhung the spot.

RUSSIA, ITALY PLAN WIDER TRADE PACT

ROME, May 18.—(AP)—A further expansion of the Russo-Italian trade agreement, together with an increased guaranty of the accounts by the Italian government, it was understood today, is being discussed by trade experts.

The two countries, it was said, are considering again raising the limit of this year's agreement from 350,000,000 lire (about $13,500,000) to 600,000,000 lire (about $23,500,000).

Italian firms also were pressing the government to guarantee the invoices up to more than 75 per cent, the limit under the present agreement.

KNOCKED FROM WHEEL, NEGRO BADLY INJURED

J. B. Carter, negro, of 200 Woodward avenue, was critically injured by an automobile driven by an unidentified white man late Monday at Butler and Gilmer streets, according to police reports. Carter was riding a bicycle when the automobile hit him and, according to witnesses, he was dragged about half a block before the bicycle was disengaged from the machine. Carter was taken to Grady hospital. The driver of the machine left the scene of the accident, it was reported.

LEWIS H. BECK, PIONEER, DIES

Retired Hardware Leader Was Noted for His Many Philanthropies.

Lewis H. Beck, prominent retired business leader and widely-known philanthropist, died at his residence in the Georgian Terrace hotel Monday evening in his 84th year. He left as

From youth, Lewis Beck had faced life as an orphan boy, and conquered it. When wealth rewarded his struggles, he did not forget the struggles of youth. He established educational and charitable funds through which he gave many young men and women the opportunity to receive a college education.

Among these were the Lewis H. Beck Educational Fund of $50,000 for worthy young men and women at Emory University, established in 1921; a similar fund of $25,000 for Georgia Tech students in 1922; the Mothers' Memorial Fund of $5,000 for a college for $20,000, set up in 1923; a $25,000 Atlanta Orphans' Fund in 1924; and a Tallulah Falls Industrial and Commercial Association in 1925. In 1921 he had provided a fund of $1,000 for honor medals for Boy Scouts. The Lewis H. Beck Y. W. C. A. Fund of $10,000, to provide worthy girls with education in commercial schools of Atlanta, was set up in 1922. An equivalent amount was set aside for the year for seminarians. Methodist preachers. A gift of $5,000 to the Atlanta Home for Old Women was made by Mr. Beck in 1925, and in 1927 a gift of $5,000 to the Emory University Expansion Fund.

Despite his advanced years, Mr. Beck exhibited a remarkable vitality and liveliness and continued interest in business activities. Two years ago he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage, the after effects of which left him in a semi-paralyzed condition, keeping him much in retirement at the hotel where he resided.

Office, Desk Maintained. Although he had retired from the hardware business years ago, an office and desk were still maintained to which he came frequently to keep fresh the memories of his long business associations. He had sold out all financial interest in the company some years before and retired more than 10 years ago, at the death of his partner, Mr. J. L. Parker, whose son now heads the organization, he returned to harness for several years, acting in an advisory capacity.

Mr. Beck was survived by two sisters, Mrs. Cora Holleman, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Carrie C. Turner, of Erlanger, N. C.; his nieces, Mrs. Charles W. Davis, of Erlanger, N. C.; Mrs. James G. Kirkpatrick, of Nashville, and three cousins, William H. Beck and E. W. Beck, of Griffin, and Lewis H. Beck, of Montgomery, Ala.

The Beck & Gregg Hardware Company will be closed all day today in tribute to the man whose life was so closely associated with the business.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR MRS. LOCKE

Victim of Suicide Will Be Buried in Greenwood Cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Locke, 41, who it was decided at coroner's inquest held Monday afternoon, committed suicide, the fatal shooting taking place Sunday afternoon, will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon Co. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery. She is survived by a daughter, Inez, 16; two sons, Arthur G., 21, and Leslie, 18, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tindall, of Columbus, Ga.; a brother, W. J. Tindall, Jr., and four sisters, Mrs. James Brand, Mrs. James Watson, Mrs. Ernest Holbeck, and Mrs. Roland Downing.

Questioned in detail by police, L. L. Leach, 41, an employee of the Georgia Power Company for the past 24 years, held to his original story that he had been shot in the neck by Mrs. Locke, while he was sitting on the edge of her bed after a Sunday dinner, that she had shown no signs of emotion, that the only reason he could imagine for the act was that she was angry because he would not take her riding, and that she subsequently shot herself. Convinced of the truth of his story, police, who had been holding Leach on a technical charge of suspicion, released him Sunday.

On the operating table at Grady hospital Leach had said that he had been shot, he ran from the room, and started down the stairs, and then heard a scream followed by a shot. Mrs. G. K. Walker, who owned the house at 424 Central avenue, in which Mrs. Locke rented the apartment in which the shooting occurred, had heard the first shot and had rushed toward the stairs. She met Leach on the way down, and corroborated his statement that he had told her to summon an ambulance. She quoted Leach as having said, "I guess she's dead."

Humane Officer C. L. Camp, who was in the neighborhood at the time, was the first to arrive, followed soon by Call Officers J. A. Hamilton and J. G. Ergle, who found Mrs. Locke on the floor with a .32 caliber revolver near her head. She had fired shot through the brain. A bullet was found on the floor near her head.

Mrs. Locke's husband died two years ago, and since that time she had been supporting herself by dressmaking. Leach told police that he had been married some time ago and that time lived in DeKalb county. The inquest resulted in a verdict of suicide.
